BERLIN—West German police reported Sunday that two big explosions during the night rocked the East Berlin area where some of the Communist regime's government offices are located.

The blasts sent East German border guards scurrying about but West German police said they did not know what caused the blasts.

Free World Trade Meeting Proposed by Diefenbaker

Canada Ready To Act as Host

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today proposed a world-wide trading conference "at the earliest practicable date" with Canada as host country.

"This should prepare the way for the prospective non-discriminatory tariff negotiations on a most-favored nation basis."

"The European community is already a reality. There has been no question here about the desirability of that community, as it now exists, carrying forward its objectives. However, it does seem that if we are to achieve still wider and more satisfactory trading arrangements before 1970, steps in the direction of further world-wide trading arrangements now should be undertaken."

... flights 'intolerable'

Canada Rapped On Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator Kenneth Keating, New York Republican, today described as "intolerable" Canadian government action in allowing Russian supply planes to fly over Canada en route to Cuba.

Testifying before a joint session of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees, he also said the United States should call for "an immediate meeting of NATO ministers" in an effort to halt trading with Cuba. He said the United States "should mince no words."

Keating said it is "absolutely ridiculous" that NATO and other free-world nations supply shipping to the Soviet Union "to create a military base in Cuba."

He also declared: "It is intolerable for the Canadian government to permit the flight of Soviet planes over Canada in order to supply additional equipment to Cuba" and for Canada to supply pilot observers or guides "for the flight of light bombers or transport planes to be added to the Cuban Air Force."

Keating also denounced the chartering of West German ships to Russia and criticized what he said was the action of the Greek government in providing "both shipping and refueling facilities for Russian cargo vessels on the way to Cuba."

The Senate groups met in a closed session to draft a congressional stand on the Soviet-aided military buildup in Communist Cuba.

Police Fire On Students

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Forty persons were injured when police fired on a student-led crowd of demonstrators in Dacca, East Pakistan, after tear gas and baton charges failed to disperse them, it was reported here today.

Authorities called in the army to take control of part of the city, the reports said.

The students were demanding lower school fees and changes in recently introduced educational reforms.

LONDON (Reuters)—About 50 Indians today demonstrated against Pakistan outside Marlborough House where Commonwealth prime ministers were meeting. The Indians carried banners accusing Pakistan of "aggression" in Kashmir.

French Plan Alone

WASHINGTON (CP)—Defence Minister Pierre Messmer says obstacles in the path of a NATO nuclear force are "insurmountable" and France will go ahead with plans to produce her first supersonic nuclear force by 1963.

VANCOUVER (CP)—University of B.C. had enrolled 13,273 students when registration closed Saturday. Fourteen thousand had been expected.

Refers to Kennedy Proposals

Diefenbaker outlined his globe-girdling plan in opening this morning's plenary session at Marlborough House. Prime Minister Macmillan and other delegates also spoke.

Diefenbaker prefaced his suggestion for world talks by referring to the plans of President Kennedy for expanding world trade. He added:

"I believe, representing as we do members of the Commonwealth and a large proportion of the world's population, we should endeavor, on a spirit of co-operation, to give world leadership in a concerted effort to meet the difficult and diversified trade problems of Commonwealth countries."

He said his proposed conference should prepare the way "for non-discriminatory tariff negotiations on a most-favored nations basis, as the United States has suggested."

In referring to the conference, Diefenbaker indicated the idea would be applicable whether or not Britain decided to join the EEC.

Pointing to the negotiations which Britain plans to resume in Brussels for entry into the EEC, Diefenbaker said "substantial further improvement" will be needed in view of undertakings given by Britain for safeguarding the Commonwealth interests.

He said "little has yet been agreed with the six" regarding tariffs on raw materials and on processed foods. There seemed clear scope for negotiations more favorable to Commonwealth interests. Improvements also were needed in relation to temperate agricultural products.

Canada also hoped and expected that some improvement was possible regarding manufactured products, on which provisional agreements have already been reached in Brussels.

Canada Would Go To New PMs Meet

Diefenbaker said that if it were the "general desire," Canada would be prepared to participate in a further meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers. It would also co-operate in any other method of assessing the results of the Brussels negotiations.

Prime Minister Macmillan summed up for the defence, ending a two-hour and 20-minute meeting.

Reuters news agency quoted conference sources as saying the atmosphere was calm, restrained and friendly—in marked contrast with last week's quarrels and frayed nerves.

However, the Associated Press described the debate as "heated." It quoted officials as saying the best Britain could expect was a general declaration acknowledging its right to join the Common Market—provided she can meet certain conditions, and gain specific safeguards for Commonwealth trade.

Macmillan spent most of Sunday writing the speech which conference sources said would aim for Commonwealth backing despite devastating criticism of the British entry negotiations which resume next month in Brussels.

It was understood today there would be no immediate communique on the Common Market issue. Delegates would continue work on a statement, which might be issued Tuesday or at the end of the conference on Wednesday.

But Rashid Kawawa, Tanganyika's premier, promptly issued a statement saying East Africa did not want associate membership in the European Economic Community.

He said: "Our concern is to maintain our economic links with Britain, which are very strong and which we value very much."

Macmillan said he recognized the importance of the following:

1. Expansion of world trade.
2. The responsibility of ad-

ELDERLY MAN CHARGED

B.C. Doctor Knifed In Murder Attempt

REVELSTOKE (CP)—Bruno Pratico, 78, was charged with attempted murder, following a knife attack on a 39-year-old doctor at the post office here Saturday.

Police said Dr. William T. Armstrong was bending over to remove mail from his box when a man slashed him in the neck with a five-inch hunting knife. The knife just missed the carotid artery, which supplies the brain with blood.

"If it had been a quarter of an inch closer, it could have killed him," police said.

As the doctor turned to face his attacker he was cut a second time, on the cheek. He was in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

SEPTEMBER 17

The gunboat Grappler arrived from Cowichan today with news of the valley settlers. They are in good trim, and many are building cabins for the winter. Copper has been discovered near the settlement by Capt. William Jaffray. Game in the valley and surrounding hills is plentiful.

Harry Keithly, the gambler accused of stabbing Jane Ashmore, is reported to have fled to the San Juans by canoe.

James Webster, senior member of the well-known boot and shoe firm of Webster and Co., was shot and killed last night by George Lawrence, just returned from the Cariboo. Lawrence said he mistook Webster for another man.

A Russian man of war arrived at Esquimalt from Sitka, bound south.

New Blast Blamed On Sons

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—About 600 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors found themselves in a familiar position today—homeless and blamed for new terrorist activities.

They thought their immediate troubles were over Sunday when caretaker Jimmy Dennis, 69, said they could stay at the deserted Boys' Club farm he was guarding near Hope, B.C.

But agents for the man who is purchasing the farm said later the radical group was not welcome. Arrangements were made for civilian guards to be put around the farm.

Hope is 41 miles east of the Sons' destination, Agassiz, where many of their number are serving terms at Mountain Prison for terrorism.

An explosion Sunday tore a hole in the base of a 3,000-gallon oil storage tank at Grand Forks. The tank was operated by an Orthodox Doukhobor co-operative.

"It was no accident," said Orthodox leader John Verigin who blamed the trekking Sons for both incidents.

But RCMP said they did not know whether the explosion was deliberately set. RCMP estimated damage at about $25,000. No one was hurt.

Dennis, former cowboy, jockey and prospector, was not worried over the possibility he may lose his caretaker's job.

"I don't care..."

"I don't care if they're Doukhobors or what they are. They're human beings and they've no place to go," he said.

And "Big Fanny" Storgoff didn't appear to be perturbed by opposition—including extra barbed wire strung around Mountain Prison—to the Doukhobor trek she leads.

BUILDING COLLAPSES; 15 DEAD, 11 MISSING

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—At least 15 persons were killed and 13 others injured today when a four-storey office building collapsed. Another 11 were missing and feared dead in the wreckage.

One eyewitness said a wall of the building started crumbling, and then the concrete floors collapsed toward a big excavation prepared for the building of a new house.

"I saw employees at their desks, sliding down the floor along with the furniture and falling in the air."

HALLS OF IVY looked unnaturally decorous as Frosh Week at Victoria College was launched with formal grey toppers today. The hats, a tribute to Victoria's 100th birthday, got frosh into special functions during the week, culminating Saturday with the first of the university's "work together" projects this year—a firewood-cutting day at Clover Point in aid of the United Appeal. Donated axes and power saws will be picked up and returned. (Times Photo).

THE OCTOPUS AND THE FALSE TEETH

'You May Not Believe This, But ...'

LONDON (AP)—Kenneth Blake ate breakfast today with a set of false teeth once worn by an octopus.

"I'm not asking anybody to believe this story," said Blake, "but it's true and here are my choppers to prove it."

Six weeks ago, Blake went to Loano on the Italian River-

iera for his vacation. He went swimming off the beach and a big wave whipped out his false teeth.

He looked in vain for those teeth.

Four days went by, and it was time for him and his family to return to Britain. Toothless and dejected he came back.

At work, he told a friend, Gerald Farrell about the lost teeth. Farrell and Blake both work for a firm making railroad coaches.

Farrell said he too would be vacationing in Loano and said as a joke:

"I'll keep an eye out for the choppers."

On his first day in Loano, Farrell sat on the beach where his friend's teeth had disappeared.

"I was watching some fishermen," he said. "They were spearing things in the water. Finally, they speared an octopus."

"I couldn't believe my eyes. For when they hauled up the octopus there in one of his tentacles was a set of false teeth. As best I could I told the fishermen how my friend lost his teeth. They handed them over."

Returning to England last weekend, Farrell called on Blake and told his strange story and handed over the teeth.

"I couldn't believe my eyes," said Blake. "They fit. They're mine. But I bet you won't believe me."

Mister Diefenbaker's trade offer seems t' be a case o' too much, too late.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society officials denied a story in The Times Saturday, that they protested plans for the laying away of colors of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in an Anglican church.

Mrs. Gerry Inglis, past president of the society, asked how they could protest at a ceremony that was "none of our business."

She admitted, however, that the society had written a letter to Brig. F. N. Cabell, president of the regimental trustees "requesting they consider" placing the old colors in a Scottish church.

This was done in anticipation, that the colors would follow those of the 16th Scottish into Christ Church Cathedral.

A member of the society, who asked his name be withheld for obvious reasons, said it all depended what you called an "expression of opinion."

It seems the "request" of the society to the trustees was rather more than that.

Dropped in yesterday for a chat with former Premier "Boss" Johnson and found him looking well and in good spirits.

His wife "Blackie" was recalling, with great glee, their wedding day in Victoria in 1920. "Boss set the date on June 29 because there was an important lacrosse game in Vancouver July 1 and he figured he could combine it with his honeymoon."

"And how did he make out?" we asked. "They scored 50 goals on him," Blackie, chuckled.

The Johnsons expect to make their first drive through the Rogers Pass shortly, stopping en route at Salmon Arm to visit Byron Jr., who has a business there.

An open-air church with log pews, a moss-covered altar and a puff of smoke from a tree stump has a charm all its own. It caught the imagination of more than 100 parents and friends who attended Open House Sunday afternoon at the George Pringle United Church Camp at Shawnigan Lake.

And they envied the 400 boys and girls who have sampled the delights of this sylvan holiday centre during the summer. They have a grand swimming hole on the western edge of the lake, a spacious log-built dining hall, trim sleeping cabins, playing fields—and a tree-top handicrafts centre.

"We have held six separate camps for boys and girls since June," said Robert McKee, chairman of the camp committee, "and none of them gave us any trouble. They had a wonderful time."

The camp, built on land donated by the late Chris Spencer, a former member of Metropolitan United Church, Victoria, is named after First World War padre, Rev. Dr. George Pringle, and his athlete son George who was killed while serving with the RCAF in 1943.

Teen-age chatter: "Just think of the tunes that guy Tchaikovsky would have written if he had lived today!"

Of course, being a "fuddy-duddy" of the last century, he was limited to those musty old symphonies and could only produce such tunes as are now known as the Sleeping Beauty waltz, Tonight We Love and the melodic theme from Romeo and Juliet, which has been served up in so many different ways by so many different dance combos.

"The Music Man" (as Phil Lee has already told you) is a lively, colorful and tuneful show which establishes Robert Preston as one of the most versatile fellows in films.

There were lineups Saturday night. Only complaint: a 20-minute intermission between the early and late shows. The splendid illusions of the silver screen are quickly dissipated by the realities of fellow-citizens munching popcorn all that time.

Quote of the week: Rudy Vallee said on Sunday night that he called his girl "Melancholy Baby" because "she had a head like a melon and a face like a collier."

Ever wondered why Norman Turner, marine surveyor in Victoria, always wears a bow tie?

He has a very practical reason. When leaning over machines there is always a good chance a long tie may get caught up in the works and pull you in!

Returning from Seattle in a Canadian Pacific steamer, a friend of ours proffered a $10 bill to the barroom waiter in exchange for a drink.

The waiter was gone for fully 10 minutes. "Sorry to be so long, Sir," he said. "I had to go down to the purser's office to get your change. We have no Canadian currency left up here."

AXE-AND-SAW SPECIALIST

Oregonian Muscles Way To $700 in Prize Money

Thunderous crash of a 90-foot logging country spar tree signalled an end to Victoria's first caulked-bow tournament Saturday afternoon when Hugh McKenzie of this city and Al Woodrow, Courtenay, dropped the big fir stick between markers set eight feet apart in the Royal Athletic Park turf.

Top money in the two-day Northwest championship loggers' sports went to Mervin Lentz, a husky axe-and-saw specialist, who walked off with $700 of a total $3,500 prize money in his staged pants. Mr. Lentz, up from West Fer, Oregon, also won two IWA trophies for scoring first in log chopping and power bucking events.

30 SECONDS AHEAD

Australia's contribution to the sports, world champion

tree-chopper, overcame a slow Friday start to rig spring-boards and hurl his axe through 13 inches of green alder almost half a minute ahead of his nearest rival.

Before the spar tree was toppled with axe and crosscut in the old-fashioned way, Malcolm Harper of Port Angeles thrilled 1,000 spectators and earned a $100 bonus by taking himself off the tree crown for a swooping descent on a light line rigged to a guy wire.

The show was sponsored by Victoria Centennial Society, with Pat Frumento as committee chairman. Master of ceremonies was Harry Heigesen, a former top competitor at Sooke Day logging contests.

Winners and their times follow:

WIENER SALES 'ACT OF MERCY'

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI)—Several storekeepers have collected a total of 34 summonses for selling wieners on Sunday, it was disclosed today.

Police doubt that it is "an act of mercy" to sell wieners on Sunday. The Lord's Day Alliance Act permits only the sale of dairy products and bread.

Some shops put baby food at the top of their list of "acts of mercy" but found they met a greater demand for wieners. Many operators sold the foods on condition that purchasers sign a form swearing that the sale was an act of mercy.

New Astronauts Picked by U.S.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Nine new astronauts, including two civilians, were added to the U.S. space team today.

The new group boosted to 16 the number of astronauts who will man the space flights for which President Kennedy has set a goal of reaching the moon in this decade.

Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre formally presented the new group at a press conference at the University of Houston.

Gilruth said the nine, already have been assigned to a comprehensive training program at the centre to prepare them for possible space flights.

In addition to the two civilians, the group includes four air force officers and three navy officers. All have test pilot experience.

NAME CIVILIANS

The civilians are Neil A. Armstrong, 32, a native of Wapakoneta, Ohio, and currently a test pilot with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and Elliot M. See Jr., 35, a native of Dallas, Tex., an experimental test pilot for the General Electric Company.

The air force men are: Maj. Frank Borman, 34, a native of Gary, Ind., an instructor in the aerospace research pilot school at Edwards AFB; Capt. James A. McDivitt, 33, a native of Chicago, an experimental flight test officer at Edwards.

Capt. Thomas P. Stafford, 32, a native of Weatherford, Okla., chief of the performance branch at the experimental test flight division at Edwards.

Capt. Edward H. White II, 32, a native of San Antonio, Texas, an experimental test pilot at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

The navy officers are: Lieut. Charles Conrad Jr., 32, a native of Philadelphia, a safety officer for Fighter Squadron 142.

Lt. Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., 34, a native of Cleveland, a flight instructor and safety officer at the naval air station at Oceana, Va.

Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young, 32, native of San Francisco, maintenance officer for Fighter Squadron 53 at the naval air station, Miramar, Calif.

The average of the new group of astronauts is 32.5 years, as compared with 34.5 for the 1959 group at the time of the selection.

Gilruth said selection of the sphere there would be less of a threat to Canadian political independence than if any unilateral arrangement were entered into between Canada and the U.S.

The resolution emphasized that there is no intention to restrict this country's foreign trade outside the hemisphere or to restrict the extension of tariff-free agreements with nations outside the hemisphere.

CAN'T AGREE

However, it is on this point that even delegates from outside the protection-conscious eastern manufacturing area cannot agree.

Victoria's delegates, for instance, are not convinced that a hemisphere trading bloc can be set up without it immediately coming into opposition to the European Common Market, to the detriment of Canadian exports to that area.

Victoria has taken no formal stand as yet on the resolution. Delegate John Wallace said this morning that while he considered the Stratford resolution of prime importance, he would have to have the matter debated very completely before he could take a stand.

"In general," Mr. Wallace said, "We will be supporting policy leading to strengthening of private enterprise. We are in agreement with the necessity for the present national austerity program and will oppose any policy measures which could add a further financial burden to the country or extend the influence of government in business."

SAFEGUARDS

Victoria's only resolution to be put forward is the recommendation that the federal government institute a study of current regulations and inspection facilities designed to safeguard the public against the marketing of foodstuffs, particularly meat.

This resolution, which resulted from the famous case of the abscessed liver sold in a Victoria butcher shop this spring, is expected to meet with general agreement of the policy committee.

Kennedy Marriage Rumor Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—A long-circulated rumor—coupled with a denial—that President Kennedy was once secretly married was published in Washington today.

The Washington Post carried an advance article from Newsweek Magazine, which it owns, and which, like the Post, branded the rumor as groundless and false.

The White House, asked for comment, declined to discuss the matter today as it has in the past.

Rumors of an early Kennedy marriage have been circulated widely for more than a year. Persons or groups have distributed in various parts of the country copies of a page from a genealogy alleging there was such a marriage.

To citizens who write the White House about the rumor, a simple reply goes out: "The president has been married only once—to his wife Jacqueline Kennedy."

The Associated Press checked many sources over the months and was never able to find any evidence to substantiate the rumor.

Newsweek pointed out Blauvelt kept documentation for every entry in his book. Under the entry of the alleged marriage to Kennedy there is only an old clipping from a Miami gossip column reporting Miss Malcolm (not Malcolm as in the book) was seen with Kennedy in a restaurant after the Second World War.

The magazine said one Blauvelt family member described the entry as "just one colossal mistake."

"It was likely that the old man formed the idea in his head, seeing the clipping, and the family hadn't had anyone famous for a long time," the relative said, according to Newsweek.

The magazine said that Miss Malcolm, now married to socialite Thomas Shevlin of Palm Beach and Newport, and President Kennedy both have denied the report privately, but that both have been reluctant to vanced industrialized nations to underdeveloped regions.

3. The urgency of providing better terms for the primary producing countries through international commodity agreements or otherwise.

4. The need for giving sufficient outlets for the primary and manufactured goods of less-developed nations.

But informants said Macmillan said Britain could not hope to attempt to achieve all this for underdeveloped nations if it remained an isolated economic entity of 50,000,000 people.

If it joined the common market, however, then greater efforts could be made, he was reported to have said.

Macmillan was "eloquently silent" when the question was raised of another Commonwealth summit conference before Britain made its final decision on joining the market, informants said.

In summing up, the British leader sought to underline the points of agreement reached at the conference.

He promised that Britain's influence in the Common Market would be exerted towards acceptance of outward, not inward, looking policies.

He was reported to have said there was no question of taking final decisions today as there were still many problems outstanding at Brussels.

And they envied the 400 boys and girls who have sampled the delights of this sylvan holiday centre during the summer.

They have a grand swimming hole on the western edge of the lake, a spacious log-built dining hall, trim sleeping cabins, playing fields—and a tree-top handicrafts centre.

"We have held six separate camps for boys and girls since June," said Robert McKee, chairman of the camp committee, "and none of them gave us any trouble. They had a wonderful time."

The camp, built on land donated by the late Chris Spencer, a former member of Metropolitan United Church, Victoria, is named after First World War padre, Rev. Dr. George Pringle, and his athlete son George who was killed while serving with the RCAF in 1943.

Teen-age Chatter . . .

"Just think of the times that guy Tchaikovsky would have written if he had lived today!"

Of course, being a "fuddy-duddy" of the last century, he was limited to those musty old symphonies and could only produce such tunes as are now known as the Sleeping Beauty waltz, Tonight We Love and the melodic theme from Romeo and Juliet, which has been served up in so many different ways by so many different dance combos.

"The Music Man" (as Phil Lee has already told you) is a lively, colorful and tuneful show which establishes Robert Preston as one of the most versatile fellows in films.

There were lineups Saturday night. Only complaint: a 20-minute intermission between the early and late shows. The splendid illusions of the silver screens are quickly dissipated by the realities of fellow-citizens munching popcorn all that time.

Quote of the week: Rudy Vallee said on Sunday night that he called his girl "Melancholy Baby" because "she had a head like a melon and a face like a collie."

Ever wondered why Norman Turner, marine surveyor in Victoria, always wears a bow tie?

He has a very practical reason. When leaning over machines there is always a good chance a long tie may get caught up in the works and pull you in!

Returning from Seattle in a Canadian Pacific steamer, a friend of ours proffered a $10 bill to the barroom waiter in exchange for a drink.

The waiter was gone for fully 10 minutes.

"Sorry to be so long, Sir," he said. "I had to go down to the purser's office to get your change. We have no Canadian currency left up here."

Oregonian Muscles Way To $700 in Prize Money

Thunderous crash of a 90-foot logging country spar tree signalled an end to Victoria's first caulked-bolt tournament Saturday afternoon when Hugh McKenzie of this city and Al Woodrow, Courtenay, dropped the big fir stick between markers set eight feet apart in the Royal Athletic Park turf.

Top money in the two-day Northwest championship loggers' sports went to Mervin Lentz, a husky axe-and-saw specialist, who walked off with $700 of a total $3,500 prize money in his staged pants.

Mr. Lentz, up from West Fer, Oregon, also won two IWA trophies for scoring firsts in log chopping and power bucking events.

30 SECONDS AHEAD

Australia's contribution to the sports, world champion

tree-chopper, overcame a slow Friday start to rig spring-boards and hurl his axe through 13 inches of green alder almost half a minute ahead of his nearest rival.

Before the spar tree was toppled with axe and crosscut in the old-fashioned way, Malcolm Harper of Port Angeles thrilled 1,000 spectators and earned a $100 bonus by tossing himself off the tree crown for a swooping descent on a light line rigged to a guy wire.

vanced industrialized nations to underdeveloped regions.

3. The urgency of providing better terms for the primary producing countries through international commodity agreements or otherwise.

4. The need for giving sufficient outlets for the primary and manufactured goods of less-developed nations.

But informants said Macmillan said Britain could not hope to attempt to achieve all this for underdeveloped nations if it remained an isolated economic entity of 50,000,000 people.

If it joined the common market, however, then greater efforts could be made, he was reported to have said.

WIENER SALES 'ACT OF MERCY'

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI)—Several storekeepers have collected a total of 34 summonses for selling wieners on Sunday. It was disclosed today.

Police doubt that it is "an act of mercy" to sell wieners on Sunday. The Lord's Day Alliance Act permits only the sale of dairy products and bread.

Some shops put baby food at the top of their list of "acts of mercy" but found they met a greater demand for wieners. Many operators sold the foods on condition that purchasers sign a form swearing that the sale was an act of mercy.

New Astronauts Picked by U.S.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Nine new astronauts, including two civilians, were added to the U.S. space team today.

The new group boosted to 16 the number of astronauts who will man the space flights for which President Kennedy has set a goal of reaching the moon in this decade.

Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre formally presented the new group at a press conference at the University of Houston.

Gilruth said the nine already have been assigned to a comprehensive training program at the centre to prepare them for possible space flights.

In addition to the two civilians, the group includes four air force officers and three navy officers. All have test pilot experience.

NAME CIVILIANS

The civilians are Neil A. Armstrong, 32, a native of Wapakoneta, Ohio, and currently a test pilot with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and Elliot M. See Jr., 35, a native of Dallas, Tex., an experimental test pilot for the General Electric Company.

The air force men are:

Maj. Frank Borman, 34, a native of Gary, Ind., an instructor in the aerospace research pilot school at Edwards AFB.

Capt. James A. McDivitt, 33, a native of Chicago, an experimental flight test officer at Edwards.

Capt. Thomas P. Stafford, 32, a native of Weatherford, Okla., chief of the performance branch at the experimental test flight division at Edwards.

Capt. Edward H. White II, 32, a native of San Antonio, Texas, an experimental test pilot at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

The navy officers are:

Lieut. Charles Conrad Jr., 32, a native of Philadelphia, a safety officer for Fighter Squadron 142.

Lt. Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., 34, a native of Cleveland, a flight instructor and safety officer at the naval air station at Oceana, Va.

Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young, 32, a native of San Francisco, maintenance officer for Fighter Squadron 53 at the naval air station, Miramar, Calif.

The average of the new group of astronauts is 32.5 years, as compared with 34.5 for the 1959 group at the time of the selection.

Gilruth said selection of the nine test pilots today culminates six months of extensive evaluation of qualifications of 253 volunteers from among military and civilian applicants.

sphere there would be less of a threat to Canadian political independence than if any unilateral arrangement were entered into between Canada and the U.S.

The resolution emphasized that there is no intention to restrict this country's foreign trade outside the hemisphere or to restrict the extension of tariff-free agreements with nations outside the hemisphere.

CANT AGREE

However, it is on this point that even delegates from outside the protection-conscious eastern-manufacturing area cannot agree.

Victoria's delegates, for instance, are not convinced that a hemisphere trading bloc can be set up without it immediately coming into opposition to the European Common Market, to the detriment of Canadian exports to that area.

Victoria has taken no formal stand as yet on the resolution. Delegate John Wallace said this morning that while he considered the Stratford resolution of prime importance, he would have to have the matter debated very completely before he could take a stand.

"In general," Mr. Wallace said, "We will be supporting policy leading to strengthening of private enterprise. We are in agreement with the necessity for the present national austerity program and will oppose any policy measures which could add a further financial burden to the country or extend the influence of government in business."

SAFEGUARDS

Victoria's only resolution to be put forward is the recommendation that the federal government institute a study of current regulations and inspection facilities designed to safeguard the public against the marketing of foodstuffs, particularly meat.

This resolution, which resulted from the famous case of the abscessed liver sold in a Victoria butcher shop this spring, is expected to meet with general agreement of the policy committee.

Kennedy Marriage Rumor Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—A long-circulated rumor coupled with a denial—that President Kennedy was once secretly married was published in Washington today.

The Washington Post carried an advance article from Newsweek Magazine, which it owns, and which, like the Post, branded the rumor as groundless and false.

The White House, asked for comment, declined to discuss the matter today as it has in the past.

Rumors of an early Kennedy marriage have been circulated widely for more than a year. Persons or groups have distributed in various parts of the country copies of a page from a genealogy alleging there was such a marriage.

To citizens who write the White House about the rumor, a simple reply goes out: "The president has been married only once—to his wife Jacqueline Kennedy."

The Associated Press checked many sources over the months and was never able to find any evidence to substantiate the rumor.

"We go where God sends us," she said, "and what we will do when we get there we do not know."

The Doukhobors camped in this area 140 miles east of Vancouver Sunday night. They were still encamped at noon today.

Meanwhile, a New Democratic party member of parliament said the federal government should move to suppress the sect.

Harold Winch, MP for Vancouver East who has been talking to Doukhobors for two weeks said in an interview: "The government is guilty of two mistakes. They have appeased these people and they've given them the dignity of recognition as an organized group."

In tracing the history of the Blauvelts, who migrated from Holland in 1638, one entry under the 11th generation says: "12.427. Durie, Kerr, Malcolm, Isabel O. Cooper, 11.304. We have no birth date. She was born Kerr, but took the name of her stepfather. She first married Firmin Desloge IV. They were divorced, and she married, third, John F. Kennedy, son of Joseph P. Kennedy, onetime ambassador to England. There were no children of the second or third marriages."

Newsweek pointed out Blauvelt kept documentation for every entry in his book. Under the entry of the alleged marriage to Kennedy there is only an old clipping from a Miami gossip column reporting Miss Malcolm (not Malcolm as in the book) was seen with Kennedy in a restaurant after the Second World War.

The magazine said one Blauvelt family member described the entry as "just one colossal mistake."

"It was likely that the old man formed the idea in his head, seeing the clipping, and the family hadn't had anyone famous for a long time," the relative said, according to Newsweek.

The magazine said that Miss Malcolm, now married to socialite Thomas Shevlin of Palm Beach and Newport, and President Kennedy both have denied the report privately, but that both have been reluctant to make a public denial for fear of giving the story further circulation.

"The President and Mrs. Kennedy are philosophical about the 'Blauvelt campaign,'" Newsweek said. "They recognize that it is motivated by extremist groups and circulated for political purpose."

Public Inquiry Urged on Stock

NDP, Secreds Blast Ontario Gov't On Handling of Natural Gas Scandal

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is reopening investigations into operations of the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company only because the British Columbia government is going to reveal information about the case, the Ontario New Democratic Party Leader, Donald C. MacDonald, said Sunday night.

Philip T. Kelly, provincial leader of the Social Credit party and former Ontario mines minister, Sunday called for a royal commission into the NONG stock scandal.

Mr. Kelly — one of three cabinet ministers who resigned their posts four years ago when the scandal first broke — said he wanted the commission to get the investigation out of the "kangaroo court" category, and clear his name.

His remarks followed a statement this weekend by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts that "new evidence" has been turned up in the case which is being investigated by both Ontario and British Columbia.

FIND NEW EVIDENCE

Mr. Roberts said Saturday he planned to reopen the investigation because "new evidence differing substantially from sworn evidence" taken in 1958, had been turned up.

Mr. MacDonald immediately blasted the attorney-general's statement as "scandalous" and said the Ontario government refused to dig out the same information when it should have during the inquiry four years ago.

He said the department is "making a virtue of necessity of reopening the investigation."

He said the new investigations are being held behind closed doors, and called for the inquiry to be made public.

"The public is entitled to iron-clad assurance that this time a full investigation will be conducted," he said, adding that the 1958 investigation was halted at precisely the point where it should have become more intensive.

Mr. MacDonald said that in January, 1957, about 14,000 unclaimed, promotional shares were made available by direct sale to Convesto (nominee account of NONG) for $2.50 a share at a time when the market value ranged from $10 to $14.

He said it was remarkable the company was given this deal which could net an almost immediate $100,000 profit.

"Until investigation of this particular stock distribution had been completed, it was impossible to conclude that NONG shares had not been used to 'sweeten up' influential persons," he said.

Welsh, Scottish and English sheep farmers settled the bleak southern tip of Argentina after 1880.

'MADE LOVE BY MISTAKE'

TORONTO (CP) — George MacFarlane, 25, was committed Thursday for trial on a rape charge after his former landlady testified she had made love with him by mistake.

The blonde, 22-year-old woman told the court she thought a man sharing her bed was her husband.

She said she was a little surprised that her husband had come home early from a fishing trip.

It wasn't until the man in her bed mumbled into her ear that she realized he was not her husband.

UN Assembly Expected To Confirm Thant in Job

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Diplomats from various parts of the world predicted today that the 17th General Assembly opening Tuesday will name U Thant of Burma to a full five-year term as secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thant is acting secretary-general, serving out the unexpired term of the late Dag Hammarskjöld that ends next April 10. He was elected last Nov. 3 after Hammarskjöld's death in a plane crash in Africa a year ago today.

Russia at first insisted that the management of the United Nations be taken over by three of its undersecretaries — an American, an Indian and a Russian.

But this so-called troika plan proved unpopular, and the Russians later shelved it and joined in the election of Thant on condition he function with the counsel of certain "principal advisers" representing various regions of the world.

The Soviet Union could block his continuance in office by vetoing him in the Security Council, which must recommend him before the assembly can re-elect him.

When Thant went to Yalta

Aug. 28 to talk with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, some people expected he would learn then whether the Soviet Union would support him for re-election or hold out for a three-headed United Nations. But in Moscow two days later, Thant told reporters the subject never came up.

One Eastern European intimated he believed Thant will be re-elected to a five year term. A neutralist Asian delegate said there is strong Afro-Asian support for Thant and no opposition in sight.

A high authority on UN affairs said he expected Thant's re-election to come about the end of October or Nov. 1. He said sentiment for continuing the Burmese in office was so strong the Russians would not try to buck it.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, with Prime Minister Diefenbaker at the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London, will not attend the assembly opening but is expected to arrive in New York Saturday.

In the absence of Green, the Canadian delegation will be under Paul Tremblay, new permanent delegate who succeeded Charles S. A. Ritchie, now ambassador to the United States.

DESERTION, CRUELTY, INSANITY

Broader Divorce Laws Backed by United Church

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The United Church of Canada today for the first time approved divorce "in certain circumstances" and called for a federal royal commission to broaden the grounds for divorce in Canada.

Council earlier turned down a resolution calling for a national censorship board in Canada.

But the key sections of recommendations on marriage and divorce were passed without dissent. The church went on record approving divorce in some circumstances. Council called for a royal commission to examine proposals to include desertion, cruelty and insanity among grounds for divorce in addition to adultery, and to abolish parliamentary divorce.

The main sections of the recommendations on marriage and divorce passed with only one amendment. Council recognized the justification of divorce "in certain circumstances" instead of "where, in fact, marriage has ceased to exist."

The change was made on the ground that the first wording might be confusing as meaning marriages broken legally, rather than emotionally.

In turning down the censorship proposal, council voted to return it to a sessional committee to hammer out a more precise statement of United Church policy on the control of obscene publications.

Dr. Ernest M. Howse of Toronto led opposition to the proposal, drafted by the board of evangelism and social service under the newly-elected moderator, Dr. James R. Mutchmor.

Dr. Howse said the proposal was "a large, general, meaningless statement that finally would involve us in particular and dangerous action."

The proposal suggested establishment of a federal censorship body to screen books and periodicals before their release to the public. The censors would have power to ban publications they considered "pornographic, filthy or obscene and to control the distribution of questionable publications to keep them away from 'the sexually immature.'"

U.S. Accuses Russian UN Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has accused two Soviet employees of the United Nations of carrying out illegal intelligence activities in New York.

Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy said Saturday night a three-year investigation had uncovered the activities of the two.

One left the country before the United States submitted its evidence to the UN secretariat and the other left afterward, presumably expelled by the United Nations.

The justice department said the illegal activities were uncovered by the FBI with the help of Richard A. Flink, a young New York City lawyer who now is a Republican candidate for the state assembly.

The announcement said the Russians promised Flink a $3,000 campaign contribution in return for information regarding what the justice department described as "internal operations of the United States government agencies and personal information about influential members of Mr. Flink's political party."

The department said the money actually was paid to Flink who turned it over to the FBI.

Battle of London

DESPITE THE ONSLAUGHT of criticism—both domestic and Commonwealth-inspired—which has attended the conference of prime ministers in London, Mr. Macmillan emerges as the victor. He has not been shaken in his determination to continue to seek membership in the European Common Market.

Faced with this unwavering purpose, the Commonwealth leaders switched their efforts from trying to keep Britain out of the Market, to trying to assure the best bargain they could obtain. Making concessions on this point, Mr. Macmillan will seek a re-examination by the ECM members of certain aspects of the agreements already reached at Brussels whereby Britain will join the group. But this will not in any way entail a general renegotiation of the membership terms.

Mr. Macmillan has also agreed to call another meeting with Commonwealth representatives following the next Brussels talks, if such a meeting be considered necessary. But this must be more in the nature of a report on what has taken place than a discussion of policy.

The basic situation arising from the London talks has not been changed by Mr. Diefenbaker's desperate last-minute face-saving proposal for a free-world mutual trade arrangement. The proposal is not the "alternative" which Mr. Diefenbaker had promised, since it provides for British membership in the ECM. Nor is it original: Mr. Macmillan, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Pearson have all urged the same general plan—and furthermore have been working towards it, rather than against it as Mr. Diefenbaker has until now. In addition, as the French point out, much of this concept is already to be seen in the ECM, GATT, and other existing groups.

It is obvious that the visiting prime ministers, urging the needs of their own countries, have not been able to persuade Mr. Macmillan to put what he considers the best interests of Britain second to their demands.

For Mr. Diefenbaker, viewed by the British press and public as leader of the opposition to Mr. Macmillan's course, this is a blunt setback. His influence was the weaker, of course, by reason of his shaky position as head of a minority government which may topple at any time once Parliament meets. Mr. Menzies, of Australia, leading a government with a majority of only one seat, was in little better position to provide strong opposition to Mr. Macmillan.

The British prime minister fought strongly at Brussels for the best possible terms of entry into the ECM—terms which would give the maximum protection to traditional Commonwealth trade arrangements. The vehemence of the Commonwealth prime ministers' demands is now well known to the ECM leaders, and Mr. Macmillan's hand may be a little strengthened when he or his ministers return to Brussels for further negotiations.

But what gains may have been made from this pressure may be lost in the reaction to Mr. Diefenbaker's strange and still unclarified hint that unless Britain did as the Commonwealth wanted, "North America" might review its military commitments to the defence of Europe.

This was a shocking suggestion from any angle, smacking as it does of diplomatic blackmail. It will have been received with resentment in Europe. It has been heard with ill-concealed anger in Washington, where the right of Mr. Diefenbaker to speak for North America is questioned, particularly when he hints at an idea which is directly opposite to United States policy.

"This was an ill-advised remark which is bound to have repercussions in the future. And as Mr. Pearson has pointed out, Canada does not maintain troops in Europe in order to ensure a preferential tariff from Britain. Canadian forces are there for the defence of the free world, which includes Canada."

Mr. Macmillan has recognized the world situation and, however it may bruise the traditional image of Britain and the Commonwealth, is trying to fashion British policies to survive in the new climate. Mr. Kennedy has recognized the trend, and is seeking to direct the policies of the United States so as to conform to and co-operate with this great movement. Mr. Diefenbaker has been late to admit it, and hence Canada has lagged in its trade policies, seeking to perpetuate the protective measures of an earlier era and make them work in the new situation.

The Hand That Holds the Match

IN AN EFFORT TO FORESTALL the forest fires which sweep through its tinder dry country, California has persuaded the United States federal government to establish a new Forest Fire Laboratory at the Riverside campus of the University of California.

This is an institution which will undertake basic research on the hazard posed by the particular conditions which prevail in the country ranging out from Los Angeles.

In specific local detail the findings of the laboratory may provide little of value to forest protection forces in British Columbia. At the same time, since the authorities in California attribute to human agency four out of five of the outbreaks which occur in critical weather, part of the research will cover methods of dealing with people so they won't start fires. That could be a study of supreme interest in this province.

The B.C. Forest Service has, in recent years, paid tribute to the way our people are becoming conscious of their responsibilities in the woods and on highways bordering forests. Their behavior is not perfect, but it has improved greatly over earlier years.

If the new Riverside laboratory—expected to be completed in June next year—is as generous with its distribution of information as the comparable institution in Montana, the research on people in relation to fire should be available here.

At present, and notably while the austerity program continues, there can be little money spent on such basic forest fire research in this province. But experiments will continue within practical limits.

During the fire season now closing, for instance, the forest service has found ample grounds for satisfaction with its recently devised system of trying to control outbreaks.

Weather, of course, has been the important factor in keeping forest losses down in 1962. Costs of suppression this year up to Sept. 7 have been $289,400 against $3,743,914 during the disastrous season in 1961. Nevertheless the weather is not credited as the sole element in the 1962 improvement.

The system of sending "bird dog" planes to check the best method of combatting an outbreak reported by a lookout spotter, and the time-buying activities of the water bombers in holding the fire down until helicopters can put men on the ground, has proved highly effective.

This is a way of catching fires and restraining them before they bloom out of control. Such a procedure is not as good as preventing fires from starting. And since records show human agency a significant cause of fires in the woods, conceivably British Columbia will benefit further from the prospective California research.

Barkerville's New Rush

ACCORDING TO ESTIMATES of the Barkerville restoration advisory committee, when the present season ends about 100,000 tourists will have visited the historic goldrush centre during 1962.

The total may be in small error, one way or the other, but the fact is apparent that the work to give back to the central British Columbia community—the "metropolis" of the upper Fraser rush about a century ago—some of its old color has proved an outstanding success.

People today want to see the recreation of a type of living followed by those pioneers who prospected the creeks for fortune, who found a stern answer to lawlessness in the strict administration of justice by Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie, and who, in their time, made of Barkerville one of the three main settlements of what is now the province. The others were Victoria and New Westminster.

The people instrumental in restoring the town—and the process continues—have hit pay dirt in the effort. These individuals from government, from regional organizations, and from historical groups, are to be complimented on their success. As the tourist figures indicate, they are creating a new "gold rush."

IS IT COMING TO THIS?

Which Way You Going and Who's on First?

"PARDON me, sir. I noticed you working with all these posts and these heavy rolls of barbed wire. I take it you're putting up another strong fence around the prison yard."

"That's right."

"They seem to have two high fences already. Are they afraid these aren't enough?"

"Well, they ordered another one. Guess they want to make sure."

"Hmmm. I notice you're fixing that wire so the barbs point outward from the enclosure. Shouldn't it be the other way round? I mean, with the barbs that way, and the fence slanting outwards a little like that, anybody inside might be able to climb it."

"Oh, that doesn't matter. This isn't to keep people in."

"It's to keep people out."

"You're putting up a barbed wire fence to keep people out of prison?"

"That's right."

"It's those Sons of Freedom. Some of them may want to break into prison. This is to keep them out."

"Oh! And that other fence . . . ?"

"Some of the Sons may want to break out of prison. That's to keep them in."

"Excuse me. Do you mind if I have a sip from your water bottle there? I feel a little dizzy."

"Go right ahead."

It seems to be typical of the topsy-turvy world in which we live that such a conversation might easily take place around Agassiz these days, for that's where they're building the fence. This sort of thing could have wide ramifications. Down in the town itself you might hear:

"Better put another row of bricks along the top, Joe, just to make sure."

"Okay. I've reinforced the back and it'll take quite a weight to get through this one."

"Fine. Use lots of mortar, and brace the whole thing back against the wall, like this."

"I'm making it double strength."

"Good. There won't be any customers forcing their way into this store; not through this bricked-up door anyway. That'll show 'em."

"I wondered why you wanted a wall put up here. You want it to keep people out of your store?"

"Sure. The Sons of Freedom. Can't take any chances, y' know."

"But suppose they want to buy something."

"Doesn't matter. We don't want any customers in here anyway. They're only a bother and mess up the stock."

Or in a contractor's office:

"I see these plans call for locks on the inside of the doors instead of the outside."

"Yes, it's a special order from the owners."

"But usually on this kind of building the locks are all on the outside."

"I know. It's something new."

"But anybody who's inside can just open the doors and walk out."

"Sure. But anybody outside can't get in, can they?"

"That's plain enough. But what kind of a mental home is that? The doors are supposed to keep people in, aren't they?"

"Not this one. They've specified that the locks are to keep people out. The owners are going to get inside and stay there. They figure that's the only place left for normal people. All the rest will be outside."

FROM WASHINGTON

A Dangerous Display of Patriotic Frenzy

IT WAS inevitable that the Cuban problem should dominate President Kennedy's press conference last week. This issue has almost blotted out all public debate on other matters. It has given the Republican party the hope of winning many additional seats in the next Congress. It has placed the president in the difficult position of having to argue against the aroused prejudices of the American people. Finally, it has forced the Democrats to compete with the Republicans in a highly dangerous display of patriotic frenzy.

Worst of all, there is no assurance, at this moment, that even President Kennedy's masterly statement will succeed in allaying public anxieties and thus moderate the clamor in Congress.

The state department has an impressive body of evidence to justify its belief that Russia is not very happy about its growing involvement in Cuban affairs. Yet Russia cannot retreat from its present commitment while the halls of Congress are resounding with angry cries against Soviet imperialism. A quieter debate in the United States might enable Russia to moderate its own policies of intrusion in this hemisphere.

Reduced Crisis

Thus, the magnitude of the present crisis would be reduced. But it is one thing for the State Department to analyze the problem in this reflective spirit; it is quite another thing to persuade Congress to agree with this analysis.

Every witness from the State Department and the Defence Department who has appeared before a Congressional committee in the last ten days has been forced to devote a large amount of time to the discussion of the Cuban problem. Without an awareness of this Congressional background it is impossible to understand the full significance of President Kennedy's statement.

The President drew national attention to the basic point in the whole problem: Castro is weak and Russia's aid to Cuba is a sign not of Castro's growing strength but of his continued weakness. It is the judgment of the Kennedy administration that the Russian technicians and supplies are primarily intended to bolster Castro's defences inside Cuba against revolt and uprisings.

An attack on Cuba now, the president warned, would actually strengthen Castro's appeal to the Cuban people and allow Russia to send much larger military supplies.

The President made three decisive declarations of policy. He said the United States would neither initiate nor tolerate any aggression in this hemisphere. He added that the United States would do everything required by the Cuban situation to protect American security and fulfill American duties but would do absolutely nothing not required by that situation.

Use of Ships

Finally he asked the NATO countries—notably Greece and Turkey and Britain—to stop the practice which allows their ships to be used for the transport of Russian supplies and men to Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy broadened his earlier statements by adding a blunt warning to Cuba to refrain from any action that either spies upon Cape Canaveral or tries to interfere with American space activities there. He specifically listed these moves by Cuba with respect to Cape Canaveral as aggressive in purpose and design. They would lead to American military reprisals.

President Kennedy, with regret, has recognized that he cannot at this stage stop Congress from passing a resolution on Cuba. He does not need any grant of new authority from Congress. As he made perfectly clear, he already has full authority as president and as Commander in Chief to take any action which may be essential to American security.

Harmless Resolution

The resolution by itself will be harmless. Seen in the context of recent speeches in Congress, it will be extremely disturbing. For it raises the fear that Congress can push the President into a harsher policy against Cuba, even though his own judgment and knowledge of the situation convince the President that there is very little wisdom in Congress on Cuban affairs.

The President tried to draw the bitterness from the Congressional debate by saying that he knew the members were speaking out of a deep patriotic concern and not out of any desire to establish a political issue for the Congressional campaign. It remains to be seen whether this high statesmanship will be answered by a similar spirit in Congress. The omens are discouraging.

Finally, on another matter, it is worth noting that President Kennedy said categorically that his administration had sold no U-2 plane to any country nor had it made arrangements for any Allied governments to train U-2 pilots here. The contract with Chang Kai-shek's government had been concluded by the Eisenhower administration.

Purposeful Visit

By RAWLE KNOX, from Bonn

MORE than one respectable hausfrau was indignant to find policemen searching her flower beds over a hundred yards away from where the French President was due to pass. More than one Frenchman living in Germany expostulated about being "invited" to visit the police station just as the president came to town. But the preliminary work of the police was so thorough that they were often able to let the president greet and mingle with members of the crowds, in a way that the Germans enthusiastically appreciated.

Dr. Konrad Adenauer never had any doubt that the state visit to Germany of his friend General Charles de Gaulle would be a success and events proved him triumphantly correct.

The General's short, emphatic speeches in German gave him a wide radio and television following. And there is no doubt that he has convinced the German public, in a way one of their own politicians could not, of the virtues and values of Franco-German co-operation.

There were no achievements of the visit that one can tick off on one's fingers. Chancellor Adenauer got no closer to his wished-for summit meeting of the Six. No further decisions were taken about Britain's proposed entry into the Common Market. Nothing emerged on West German assistance to the development of the French atomic weapon.

Some German cynics marvelled that the visit could arouse such enthusiasm.

"After Adenauer, who?" asked a Hamburg businessman. "And after de Gaulle, what? One cold winter on the Rhine, and one well-aimed bullet in Paris, and we would have two headless states, and two states of headlessness."

French and West German four officials argued that it was just because the two leaders themselves were aware of these dangers that they were so urgent in their wish to make Franco-German friendship a reality.

Positive Proof

It seems symbolic, to many thoughtful Germans, that Chancellor Adenauer's state visit to France in early July was made just at the time France was finally relinquishing her rule in Algeria. There was positive proof that France was renouncing completely her old idea of empire, and turning to a united Europe.

The sacrifice that both de Gaulle and France made in Algeria is probably better appreciated in West Germany than anywhere else outside France; the more so since there was considerable sentiment here (and more among the many Germans who served in the Foreign Legion) for the French settlers.

The purpose of General de Gaulle's visit, then, was not to tidy up any technical details, but to present Franco-German solidarity in such an emotional light that popular opinion would not allow any future French or German government to try to weaken it. To that purpose the General, with the Chancellor's aid, made an impressive beginning.

Whatever shape a united Europe may finally take, General de Gaulle left no doubt as to what its role would be. It would be a third power, based on the immense strength of the united French and German peoples, which would not have to take orders or look for assistance from either the United States or Russia.

It is this aspect that might well have worried Mr. Harold Macmillan and the other Commonwealth premiers, meeting in London the day after General de Gaulle had returned in triumph to his own country.

The United Kingdom Government has gone on record as saying that it will not join a European union that is inward-looking, that is devoted to strengthening its own economic and military power at the expense of less fortunate peoples. But the French President again and again emphasized on his German tour that only a united Europe, with Franco-German solidarity as its foundation, could provide the strength needed for true independence. His reference to strength and power were those that struck the popular imagination.

Different Policy

The general Franco-German economic talks that were carried on during the visit showed that neither country shared the American ideal of preserving democracy in underdeveloped countries by providing cash assistance.

France is willing enough to give aid where French culture can be preserved; West Germany is happy to assist on projects that will provide outlets for her own industry; but neither considers that aid for purely political reasons is of much value.

As an aftermath of the visit, diplomatic observers are watching to see whether West German politicians will find in Franco-German friendship an alternative slogan to German reunification.

General de Gaulle said nothing about German unification, or about Berlin. In any future European union West Germany could hardly expect her partners to pay anything more than lip service to the aim of recovering both the present German Democratic Republic and East Prussia.

Although the familiar placards ("Germany divided into three parts? Never.") appeared on General de Gaulle's procession routes, there are signs that Bonn is soft-pedalling this particular propaganda. The professional refugee pressure groups report a lack of sympathy for their cause.

Some observers here believe that a West Germany solidly embedded in a Western European union would have little opportunity to carry on the campaign for reunification, and that this would help both West Germany and West Europe.

The argument that West Germany "fascists" are plotting the reconquest of all Germany by force, as at present in East Germany the most widely believed of all Herr Ulbricht's propaganda points. But when elections come round again, campaigning is likely to be on the usual lines.

"It takes more than one de Gaulle visit to make a summer," a Christian Democrat Union politician said to me. "The people may get a ray of sunshine from Paris, but they send their food parcels to East Germany."

Duodenal Ulcer

Many men write asking me whether they should have an operation for a duodenal ulcer. Often I cannot say because I don't know whether the ulcer is bothering the man at all, or whether he can control his symptoms well enough by taking milk every two or three hours, or whether he can avoid pain by calming down, and perhaps getting free from some annoyance.

Alvarez

It is many years since I ordered an operation for a person with a duodenal ulcer. In the first place, our operations for ulcer have never been entirely safe or satisfactory. Years ago surgeons used to make a gastroenterostomy, with a new opening between the stomach and the bowel. Sometimes it worked perfectly, but there was so large a percentage of people who promptly developed an even worse ulcer just outside of the new opening that nearly all surgeons gave up the operation. The operation continued to be used for people with an ulcer of the stomach, or a cancer of the stomach or for an ulcer in older people, or for people with a perforating ulcer, or an obstructed ulcer. In their cases, the operation usually worked well.

The surgeons then tried to help people with a duodenal ulcer by removing two-thirds or three-fourths of the stomach. This operation was in some ways better than that of gastroenterostomy, but still stomach specialists much disliked it. Many people who lost their stomachs never had strength enough to work again, or they never could gain back the large amount of weight they lost. Some of them after every meal suffered greatly from what is called a "dumping syndrome"; as soon as they ate they felt nauseated, dizzy, sick, sweaty, somewhat shocked, with perhaps a feeling as if they were going to have a diarrheic bowel movement. Still there were some who got a new ulcer.

Because surgeons soon saw that this operation was not entirely satisfactory, for a while they tried cutting the two big vagus nerves that come down from the brain to the stomach. Theoretically this operation should keep harmful influences from coming down from a worried brain to the ulcer, but actually the operation often worked so very badly that perhaps most surgeons soon quit performing it. Sometimes it left a man with a badly dilated stomach, which caused him to keep belching foul gases all the time, or caused him to suffer constantly with a diarrhea, or great abdominal misery. I certainly would never permit anyone to perform the operation on me. It might work all right, but if it did not my life might become almost unbearable.

In my experience, few men have a duodenal ulcer so painful that it must be operated on. What is sad is that if a man has a very bad ulcer and is operated on, he is likely to be the one who gets a new ulcer—because in him the tendency to get an ulcer is so strong. The older I get and the more patients with ulcers I see, the less interest I have in giving them either a diet or medicine or an operation.

My first question always is "When this ulcer came, what had just happened to you to upset you terribly?" My impression is that in the last ten years almost every time I have asked this question, the man has said, "My hemorrhage (or my abdominal pain) came the day after I had to face a great sorrow, or a disaster in my business (or my personal life)."

One man had a big hemorrhage from his stomach the day after he discovered that, for years, his partner had been stealing from him; another man bled heavily the morning after he had had a violent argument with his boss; another got an acute ulcer when he was fired; another got a severe ulcer when gangsters tried to muscle in on his business; another got an ulcer when a big shipment of Christmas merchandise was lost and he was threatened with great financial loss. Another got an ulcer when he learned that his adored wife had a cancer of the breast; another got his ulcer when his important invention was rejected; another got a bad ulcer when he was sued; another got an ulcer when his company went bankrupt; another when he overworked in the advertising business, and another when he got a "dry hole" in a wild-cat oil drilling venture. I could tell dozens of stories like that.

The most remarkable thing I know about patients with an ulcer is that when a man who for months has been walking the floor at night with ulcer-pain closes his desk and takes a plane to see a doctor halfway across the country, he is likely that day to lose all of his pain. So I say to such a man, "Why have a big dangerous operation, and one that may leave you worse off than you were before, when you can so easily relieve your pain by taking a rest and finding peace of mind?"

It's Time for the Indoor Shift

Brilliant, sunny days at this time of year are usually followed by cool, clear nights—a combination which foretells near-frost temperatures at dawn.

Our house plants which have been summering outdoors will not take kindly to such conditions, and they should be moved in with out further delay.

Hilda

Those in pots need only to be washed and inspected so that earwigs and sowbugs are not brought indoors, especially in the drainage holes. Give the pots a thorough watering too, by standing them in a tub of water.

After that, it's an airy place for them during the next week or so, to accustom them to indoor atmosphere. Putting them straight into the house with windows and doors closed for greater part of the day is often the cause of leaves falling.

Talking to folks at the flower show on Saturday, I discovered that more than one gardener is accustomed to planting out the house plants in the flower border for the summer months.

One lady takes her Chinese jade tree (Crassula argentea) out of its pot in early June and puts the root ball into the border along with the summer annuals. She also has tried planting out her Christmas flowering cactus (Zygocactus truncatus) this year on the advice of a friend who has always had quantities of blooms at Christmas.

Such plants should be repotted rather tightly into their clean pots when dug up in the fall, watered enough to settle the soil closely around the roots, and then left to make their new root balls.

I have known the Chinese jade to bloom profusely during the winter after being planted out in the border. But the idea of doing the same with the Christmas flowering cactus was a new one for me. I pass it on to you as an experiment, but don't put it out before the cool spring nights are over, and do bring it in before the frost touches it in September.

CONGO SINKING DEEPER INTO MORASS OF PROBLEMS

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LONDON (AP)—Copper pours out of the Congo. Royalties and taxes flow into the national bank of Katanga.

The Congo settles deeper into the rut of financial insolvency and political uncertainty.

This is the situation Western diplomats are trying to resolve more than two years after Congo independence. The former Belgian colony is still tumbling with its tribal chiefs, fanning its ancient hates, confounding destiny as a nation.

The budgetary deficit grows deeper and the Congolese currency, once tied to the Belgian franc, is almost worthless outside the Congo.

Premier Cyrille Adoula in Leopoldville, a moderate and forward-looking man by Congolese standards, works to bring order out of chaos. Many diplomats feel he is fighting a losing battle against left-wing political forces.

Antoine Gizenga, the Soviet-favored lieutenant of the slain

Patrice Lumumba, is in detention on a Congo river island. Other Lumumba followers are active among the thousands of jobless and discontented Congolese. It is not difficult to stir up opposition among a people promised so much under independence and granted so little.

BIG OBSTACLES

The Congo is potentially one of Africa's richer nations. But the obstacles facing Adoula are the monumental backwardness of his people, the absence of a true national feeling, in the Congo, the mad scramble for power—and Moïse Tshombe.

Tshombe is the flamboyant, changeable tribal aristocrat who rules Katanga Province. He calls it a nation, but, the United Nations insists it is still one of the Congo's original six provinces. Tshombe announced Katanga's secession from The Congo on July 11, 1960.

Since then he has been collecting all the taxes and mineral royalties from Katanga which formerly went to the central government in Leopoldville.

In the middle of this weird manoeuvring stands the Union Minière du Haut-Katanga, one of the world's great mining houses. After paying Katanga $40,000,000 in 1961, Union Minière netted $30,000,000.

Union Minière has been accused of supporting Tshombe in his defiance of the central government, but the sedate headquarters of Union Minière in Brussels denies this.

Union Minière officials who supervised the removal of copper from Katanga's rich deposits say they have only one objective—to continue to mine copper as they have been doing since 1906.

Soblen Inquest Adjourned Until Oct. 4

LONDON (Reuters)—An inquest into the death of Dr. Robert Soblen has been adjourned until Oct. 4 only 10 minutes after it opened.

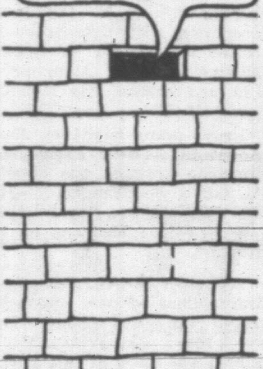

A British government pathologist told the inquest he had not yet been able to determine the cause of the fugitive spy's death.

Both the pathologist and Scotland Yard detectives investigating the Soblen affair told the coroner conducting the inquest there was still "a considerable amount of work" to be done.

The coroner then adjourned the inquest and said that if more time is needed when it reopens, the inquest will be adjourned again.

End of 'Family' If U.K. Enters

REGINA (CP)—Robert Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit party, says British membership in the European Common Market "would mark the beginning of the end of the family of nations we know as the British Commonwealth."

Mr. Thompson said in an interview here Saturday, "If Britain insists upon going into the community of Europe she will cease to remain the focus of the Commonwealth."

He said the treaty of Rome, Charles Binns, founder of the American Ceramic Society who died in 1934, worked in famous English potteries before emigrating to the U.S.

under which Britain is negotiating entry into the ECM, implies that Common Market members will lose their national sovereignty.

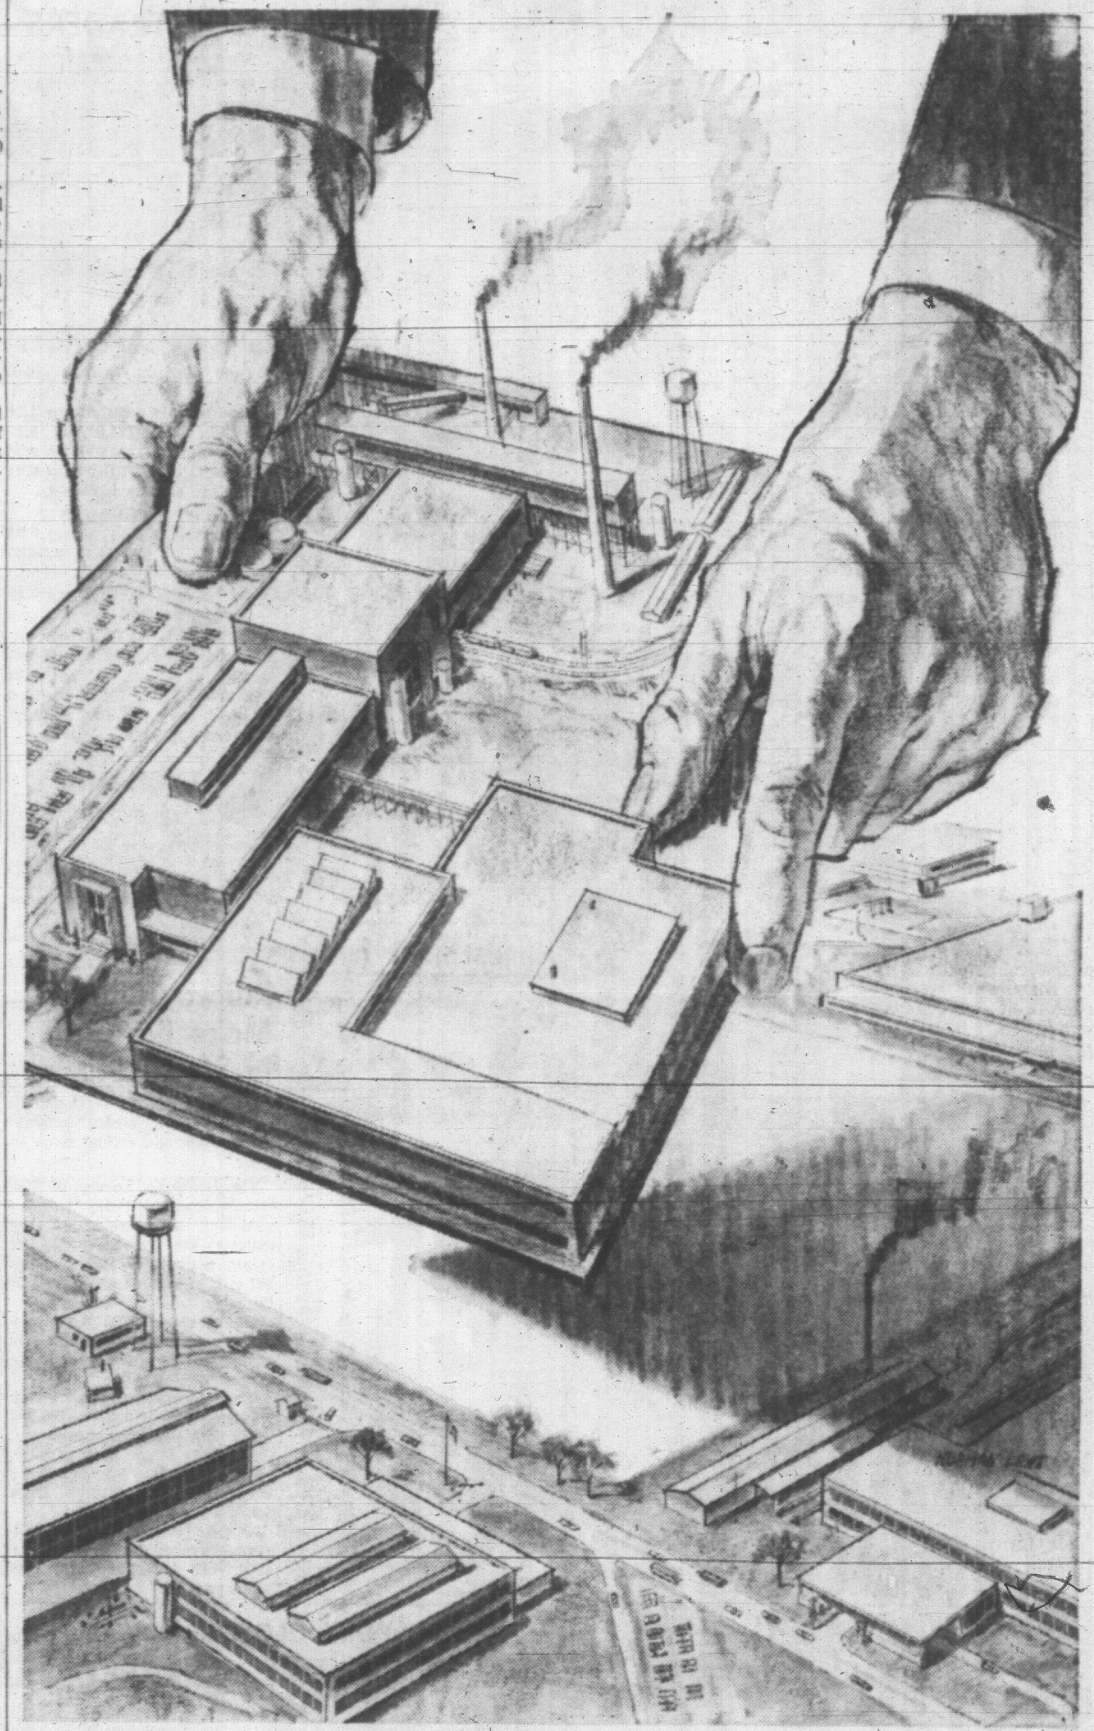

"I think this is Britain's affair but we in Canada should come up with a proper alternative," Mr. Thompson said.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN when you own Life Insurance

Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance—as protection for your family—as a good way to save money regularly—as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency—as a retirement plan for you later on.

Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.

At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises—through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.

These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too.

The income from these investments benefits you directly by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

Chamber Drive On New Course

By BRUCE LEVETT
VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, split a year ago by the furor which blew up around Operation Freedom, today heard a forecast of increased economic education.

F. W. Bradshaw, Montreal paper corporation executive and chairman of the chamber's executive council, said in his annual report that "it is anticipated that a program of economic education will be supported and carried out by chamber members at all levels in the years ahead—on a more intensified basis than during the last several years."

Mr. Bradshaw prepared his report for the chamber's 33rd annual convention, which opened here today and continues through Wednesday. More than 500 delegates and their wives and husbands are attending.

Last fall, at the annual meeting in Halifax, the chamber expressed its usual emphatic support of private enterprise and proposed Operation Freedom as a special campaign to that end. A pamphlet introducing the program said the objectives were:

"To rouse Canadians from apathy and indifference into action against the growing threats of socialism and communism; and to inform Canadians of the freedoms enjoyed under the democratic form of government and under the economic system of private competitive enterprise."

REACTION VIOLENT

Reaction to the linking of socialism and communism was violent and terms such as "John Birchism" and "McCarthyism" were applied by those opposed. The proposed program resulted in much disagreement among the chambers and boards of trade which make up the Canadian Chamber. Some criticized it, others accepted it and others only said that they would not implement it.

Today, Mr. Bradshaw said of Operation Freedom:

"It should be emphasized that the program was not a new or radical departure from the program which had been in operation successfully for the last 18 years.

However, under the name Operation Freedom it was given much wider publicity than work of this nature has been given in the past.

"Because a new political party had just been formed and 1962 was an election year, this phase of the program took place in a highly-charged political atmosphere.

"While there is still considerable political uncertainty in Canada at the present time, it is anticipated that a program of economic education will be supported and carried out by chamber members at all levels in the years ahead, on a more intensified basis than during the last several years."

Today you will find graduates of the Dale Carnegie Course around the world. There are more than 1,000,000 of them, engaged in practically every business or profession. They include corporation presidents, community leaders, young people on the way up. It all began in 1912, when Dale Carnegie—a man ahead of his time—first set forth ideas that have spread to every corner of the business world and community life. Then his ideas were new. They broke with the old accepted patterns of achievement.

In essence, Dale Carnegie said, "Job know-how alone cannot bring you the business success you want. To it you must add self-confidence and getting along with others. These abilities will also make a great contribution to your personal life."

Few today would take issue with this statement. The million men and women who have been graduated from the Course look back on it as an experience that immeasurably helped them achieve their goals. Many of them say that Dale Carnegie's ideas helped them find greater personal fulfillment and happiness. Put into practice, they are ideas you can never forget.

U.S. CHAMBER HEAD:
Tariff Barriers
'Self-Defeating'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ladd Plumley, 50, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said today high tariffs are self-defeating and suggested Canada remove its temporary tariff surcharges "as soon as the emergency permits."

"You are the best judge of when that will be," he added in a speech before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce where he suggested also Canada and the United States could follow "a long and fruitful road" towards economic integration.

This was a theme the Massachusetts insurance executive developed when he became chamber president last April and urged businessmen on both sides of the border to initiate a study on how a tariff-free pact could be developed over the years between the two countries.

"If closer economic integration would entail a diminution of Canada's stature," he told his Vancouver audience, "then I would say let us call a halt. But, my friends, I do not believe greater economic integration would adversely affect Canada's interests."

In a world where "the old order changeth in Europe," Plumley suggested Canada's response to the prospects of Britain entering the Common Market should be to remove Canadian austerity tariffs—those imposed last June—as soon as feasible and study ways of increasing participation in free world trade.

Officer Led Plot On de Gaulle

PARIS (Reuters)—Police said today that a lieutenant-colonel under interrogation since Saturday has confessed to leading last month's attempt to kill President de Gaulle.

The officer was named as Jean-Marie Bastien-Thiry, an aeronautical engineer attached to the French air ministry.

Police said he confessed to presiding over meetings at which the machine-gun attack on de Gaulle was prepared.

He also visited the scene of the attack, at Petit Clamart on the way to Villacoublay military airport, they said.

He visited the ambush site in a car, accompanied by former major Henri Niaux, earlier identified as organizer of the attack, police said. Niaux was found hanged in a Paris police cell early Saturday after being arrested at Agen, southwest France, the previous day.

AFFILIATION CONVENTION TOPIC Federal Group Eyes CLC

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress will be the opening topic at the third biennial convention of the Civil Service Association of Canada, scheduled Oct. 25 at Vancouver.

The association said today a special committee which was set up two years ago to study this issue will present a recommendation to the convention for discussion by the 150 delegates. The 30,000-member association is the largest independent body representing federal government employees. Most other groups are affiliated in the Civil Service Federation, a 70,000-member organization which the association has not joined.

Other major items for discussion at the convention will be the recent report of the Glassco royal commission on government organization and the government's wage freeze.

A list of 291 resolutions from local branches will be studied by 17 special committees.

Wild, Ferguson Top Contenders

ORONO, Ont. (CP)—Two British Columbia cyclists, who paid most of their own expenses to compete in the British Empire Games trials here Sunday, may have won themselves a trip to Perth, Australia.

Jack Ferguson of Vancouver and Bill Wild of Victoria finished one-two in the first half of the trials, only 33 seconds apart over the 120-mile course.

FOSTER WINS

Modifieds Outclass Stock Cars

A one-lap handicap and a reverse start didn't stop modified-sportsmen cars from outclassing stock cars in the 25-lap main event, won by Billy Foster Saturday evening at Western Speedway.

The seven modifieds were in the process of lapping the field a second time when Foster received the checkered flag. Ray Pottinger and Al Smith placed second and third, respectively. Nibs Anderson was the first stock car driver to finish.

Brian Wilson, leading stock car driver this season, won the trophy dash and the first heat.

Vern Amor topped the special motorcycle races, accumulating the most points in two 10-lap heats.

BOBBY ALLAN, TOO

East Must Watch More Than Bionda

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—When folks discuss the best lacrosse players in Canada they usually boil it down to two men—Jack Bionda of New Westminster and Bobby Allan of Nanaimo.

In this year's Mann Cup final for the Canadian senior title, Bionda and Allan are on the same team.

The West's representative, New Westminster, arrived here Sunday with the news that Allan has been picked up as one of three replacements.

But Gwyn Evans, manager of the east's Brampton Ramblers, said "we'll win it in six games." We have the man to stop Bionda.

Burly Bruce Wanless will be assigned to Bionda, former National Hockey League defenceman, because of the job he did on him in the 1960 series.

Bionda was with Nanaimo then and Wanless was picked up from Brampton by Port Credit Sailors. The Sailors, due largely to Wanless' handling of Bionda, won the cup.

STYLES DIFFER
"But we're a different team," said New Westminster manager Jack Fulton. "We're a running team. Nanaimo was a team of individuals."

The best-of-seven series opens tonight in this Toronto-area

It's a new season, but some of the problems—for Victoria United—seem quite familiar.

Last season United relied on a brilliant defence to carry the team to a second-place finish in the overall standings. Theirs might have been a better season had it not been for: (a) inability to win games on Vancouver's Callister Park pitch; and (b) a not-too-hot offence.

This "new" season started Saturday at Callister Park in this fashion: Victoria 0, Canadians 1.

Familiar? About 750 fans sat in on the curtain-raiser. Now United, which was forced to go without centre-forward Mel Cooper Saturday, turns its attentions to next weekend's home opener against New Westminster Royals.

"We'll have to get in shape," said manager Wally Milligan. He had no alibi. "Barry Sadler, Len Anderson and Harold Holroyd were the only ones who played up to par."

"Canadians are in superb condition and should have beaten us by more than that. Funny thing, though, the goal that they did get was half a mile offside."

Canadians dominated the first half of the play, and would have scored several times but for the brilliant goalkeeping of Sadler.

Several of Sadler's saves were models of positional play as he thwarted the Vancouver forwards.

HIT GOAL POST

Victoria had more of the game in the second half and once hit a goal post with goalie Hans Lee well beaten.

Sunday's fixtures resulted in victories for St. Andrew's and defending champion Firefighters.

The Scots wrecked Seattle's debut by tripping the Hungarians 4-2. At Vancouver, three former European pros signed by Columbus showed to good advantage but failed to ignite their fellow players as the Italians went down 2-0 to the Firemen before a turnout of about 2,500 fans.

LACKED FINISH

The three ex-pros, goalie Hector Zanolli, fullback Steve Djorich and forward Ottorino DiFant, provided plenty of fine soccer but Columbus lacked bite in front of the goal and wasted many good scoring chances.

George Dunn, playing his first game for Firefighters, and centre forward Jim Blundell counted the winners' goals.

St. Andrew's, displaying youth and speed, collected two goals from Graham Frizzell and one each from Dick Crompton and Sig Gohringer, all within the space of 21 minutes at Seattle.

Les Fabr and Mike Kuczi scored for the Magyars.

Brumel's Gold Medal No. 13 for Russians

BELGRADE (AP)—Valery Brumel, the world's top high jumper, capped Russia's championship performance in the championships Sunday with European track and field a jump of seven feet, three inches. Brumel's gold medal was the 13th won by the Russians in the meet which ended Sunday.

Brumel's championship was the final one decided.

Britain was second in gold medals with five while the combined team from East and West Germany finished with four. On the 7-5-4-3-2-1 basis of the European system of scoring, the Russians finished with 187 points, gaining six silver medals and 10 bronze medals to go with their 13 firsts. Germany was second with 156 and Poland third with 106. The Poles had three gold medals.

Stig-Eriksson of Sweden was second in the high jump at 6-7 and Brumel's teammate

Robert Shavlakadze third at 6-6.

Gerarda Kraan of Holland broke the women's world record for the 800 metres with a time of two minutes, 2.8 seconds, breaking the mark of 2:04.3 set by Russia's L. Sevcova two years ago.

Germany's speedy relay teams won a pair of titles, the men's 400-metre event in 39.5 seconds and the 1,600 metres in 3:05.8.

Two of the world's top distance runners, Michel Jazy of France and Britain's Brian Kilby also were victorious. Jazy won the 1,500-metre run in 3:40.9 and Kilby took the marathon run in two hours, 2:18.8.

Hornets Extend Unbeaten Streak

The running of Terry Kochems and Bruce McFarlane picked up another "first down" Sunday in Victoria Hornets' march to the Fraser Valley Junior Football League championship.

Hornets extended their unbeaten streak to six games with a 45-7 revenge rout of Chilliwack Mustangs. Chilliwack tied Victoria 7-7 earlier in the season to place the only blot on Hornets' record.

Kochems scored three touchdowns and McFarlane added two as Hornets held complete command of Sunday's game at Macdonald Park. Quarterback Dave Hayward and Dave Rees counted Victoria's other six-pointers while Barrie Neff added three converts.

A second-quarter touchdown by Chuck Weiss, converted by Jack Toop, mounted for Chilliwack's only points.

Ken Stokes' Hornets again got a standout performance from their defensive corps.

At Cloverdale, quarterback Ceece Ballard booted a single in the third quarter for the only score in the game as Surrey Rams defeated Richmond Colts 1-0 to take over second place.

Both teams scored what they thought were touchdowns during the game, only to have the ball called back by officials because of infractions.

Smokies Accept World Puck Bid

TRAIL (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters have decided to accept an invitation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to send a team to the world championship in Stockholm next spring.

Smoke Eaters, last season's Allan Cup champions, will leave here next Feb. 4 or 5 for a 42-day tour, starting with a five-game exhibition tour of Canada.

The club will leave Canada Feb. 13 and play 10 pre-tournament exhibition games in Europe. The world championship starts in Stockholm March 7.

336 Yards Rushing!

Nanaimo Redmen jumped into first place Sunday, but the raves from all quarters of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League were directed at a young Victoria Vampires' fullback who has his own method of celebrating a birthday.

Darryl Thom, 17 on Saturday, turned in one of the outstanding performances in league history as Victoria Vampires trampled Oak Bay's Farmer Construction, 40-0, into the turf at Carnarvon Park.

A three-year veteran of juvenile action who last year played only defensively for Vic Gallop's Vampires, Thom romped for three touchdowns and kicked three converts. More impressive, however, was his rushing record.

SOME RECORD!

In 20 carries, Thom picked up a net 336 yards from scrimmage!

Granted, some sharp blocking on the part of his mates helped as he was sprung loose for touchdown runs of 49, seven and 85 yards.

It was the second straight loss for Farmers, last year's Western Canada finalists.

Vampires got other majors from John Porter, Doug Belababa and Jack Herfield.

At Campbell River, the Redmen broke open a tight contest in the second half to defeat Campbell River Raiders 26-6.

That Winning Touch

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Stanley Matthews, Jr., son of Britain's most famous soccer player, won the British boys' singles tennis championship for the third straight year Saturday. The 16-year-old Matthews defeated Graham Stilwell 6-3, 6-4.

The overall lighting is even, highlighting the texture of the surface.

CHARIOT RACES were the highlight of athletic events at the fifth annual B.C. Rover Scout Moot—a meeting of Rover Scouts from points throughout the province—held over the weekend in Metchosin. Other athletic events included "Crumpet Dunking" (canoe jousting), kaber tossing, putting the shot, axe throwing and tug-of-war. The 20 crews engaged in discussions pertaining to scouting and a hike to a near-by lake. Pictured here is the Fairfield Rover Scout Crew which hosted the campout. (Ryan Bros. Photo.)

BROAD POWERS

New Supply Body Teed Up for CD

By AB KENT

A "shadow" supply organization that puts teeth into local civil defence planning across the country is described in a new provincial CD. bulletin issued to Victoria target area headquarters.

Until an emergency, the organization—called War Supplies Agency—does not exist, except on paper.

But with a nuclear emergency or national disaster, the agency becomes effective immediately, operating with broad powers of control over both civil and military supplies by orders-in-council under the War Measures Act.

Until now, local authorities have had the obligation to provide certain materiel in connection with civil emergency planning, but lacked power to commandeer such things as food, equipment and vehicles.

Foreseeing the requirement as work proceeded on developing a Victoria target area plan, local officers had already done considerable groundwork in this connection.

It is planned to have a War Supplies Agency main office located outside the target zone, probably at Duncan, adjacent to area headquarters which automatically goes into operation with strategic warning of attack.

OWN OFFICERS

Municipal organizations of Esquimalt-Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay will have their own officers.

At least one other supply officer will be appointed, probably at Sooke.

So far, the planning has not extended to retail stocks, but essential items will be frozen in the event of emergency.

Municipal supply officers will not be involved in federal matters of price-fixing or other economic controls, rationing, commodity control, energy resources control or other regulatory matters.

Initial work in the supply planning program is aimed at supporting emergency services undertaken by municipalities.

After the first review of local emergency supply planning, the emergency supply planning branch of the department of defence production will examine changes to meet particular local circumstances.

HEALTH RISK RULED OUT BY RADIATION EXPERTS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The federal radiation council said today that the present level of radioactive fallout in the country does not warrant taking special steps to protect the public.

The council noted that in some areas the amount of radioactive iodine absorbed in the body had approached or slightly exceeded levels set by the council's "radiation protection guides."

As a result of these disclosures, several communities took special countermeasures and precautions. The Utah dairy industry, for instance, shifted some dairy herds from fresh pasturage to storage feed free of radioactivity. Exposed milk was diverted to production of cheese and butter, giving the radioactivity a chance to disappear.

The council said today—without mentioning any specific locality—that it "does not recommend such actions under present circumstances."

PENTECOSTAL ASSEMBLY CONFERENCE

Church Protests CBC 'Loose Moral Tones'

EDMONTON (CP)—A resolution protesting the "loose moral tones" of some CBC radio and television productions was passed unanimously Saturday by delegates attending the 23rd biennial general conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

The resolution termed some productions "obscene and morally objectionable to many segments of our population."

The resolution, coming from the church's Alberta division, instructed its national office to make a protest to the CBC board of governors and send copies to all members of Parliament. It incorporated an amendment proposed by Rev. R. Argue of Montreal that efforts be made by the national office to establish particular instances of any violation of moral standards in CBC programming.

... The particular program concerned an interview with a woman who spoke very lightly of premarital sexual relations," he said. "The interviewer by attitude seemed to approve and as the mouthpiece of the CBC showed no disassociation or disapproval..."

Rev. L. Halliwell of Edson, Alta., objected to the "general amoral tone" of "live drama production on the CBC."

It presents to the public amoral and often decidedly vulgar pictures," he said, suggesting it would be wise if the CBC left the entertainment field while maintaining documentary service, news and certain public services.

Castro Deploys 5,000 Men Near Big U.S. Naval Base

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP)—Fidel Castro has deployed about 5,000 to 6,000 troops near this U.S. naval base in eastern Cuba, according to intelligence reaching American navy and marine commanders.

But U.S. military authorities believe these regulars, bolstered by thousands of militiamen, are there to keep the Cuban people in check rather than to mount an attack on this U.S. fleet base.

Guantanamo's command doubts the likelihood of any serious Cuban threat to the 45-square-mile base, but the entire military force of about 3,000 men has been trained to fight if trouble comes.

So far little of the new military gear the Russians have supplied to Castro's regime has showed up near this U.S. enclave. Rear-Admiral Edward J. O'Donnell, base commander said his patrols have not sighted any missile-armed torpedo boats which President Kennedy said have been sent to Cuba.

SPOTS SOVIET TRUCKS

O'Donnell reported Soviet-made trucks are operating outside Guantanamo's fence, but they have been in the area for some time.

Persons suspected of being Communist-bloc nationals, including some Asians, have been spotted near the base.

Castro has received Soviet-made MiG fighters, but there have been no intrusions of Guantanamo's air space since the spring of 1961.

Most of Castro's forces in this area are stationed some miles from Guantanamo's 26-mile perimeter, but the Cubans maintain a line of one- and two-man outposts within 100 yards of the base fence.

Seamen Quit Cuba-Bound Freighter

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP)—Twelve of the 19 crew members of an Italian freighter bound from a Soviet Black Sea port to Cuba have come ashore here and refused to resume the voyage, port officials said today.

The Italian seamen came ashore shortly after the 6,968-ton Airone put in here after leaving Novorossiysk Sept. 7. The men contended that the cargo and the destination were dangerous.

The Airone is bound for Havana. Port officials said her manifest listed cargo as petroleum products, iron and grain. The sailors said, instead, that the ship was carrying explosives.

Port authorities said they inspected the cargo and the ship's manifest was correct.

Despite this, the crew members refused to return.

Ex-BCDs Invited To Mainland Party

V.I. members of the B.C. Dragons' Association have been invited to a dinner and dance being held by the lower mainland branch.

Former members of the Second World War tank regiment will meet at 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 6, at the Swedish Park Pavilion, Deep Cove Lane, at the north end of Second Narrows Bridge. Wives are invited.

Swedish Gov't Wins

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden's ruling Social Democratic party scored decisively in the Swedish municipal elections, mounting returns showed today.

The Conservatives were the heaviest losers in Sunday's voting. The Liberal party, the Agrarian Centre party and the Communists maintained their previous positions.

MONEY TROUBLES 'YOUR OWN FAULT' HOSPITALS TOLD

Health Minister Eric Martin said today if B.C. hospitals are in financial trouble it's their own fault. "There has been no delay and no reduction in government payments," he said.

"Hospitals this year are receiving more income than ever in history."

He described as "utterly wrong" charges from hospital officials that they are not receiving two-fifths of provincial sales tax revenue.

(When the tax was increased from three to five per cent in 1954 the government said the extra was to cover hospital insurance payments.)

Vancouver Island hospital officials said they weren't getting the full two-fifths at a meeting here Saturday.

"I don't think there's any doubt we're not getting the two per cent," said Ian Dodds of Beaver Cove, president of the Vancouver Island Council of the B.C. Hospital Association. TOO MUCH?

"If we got the full amount it might be more than we need."

Mr. Dodds said the hospitals were not getting the money allotted to them in the provincial budget.

The Island meeting followed a BCHA statement Friday that "many hospitals in B.C. are at this moment in grave financial trouble."

Mr. Martin said that two-fifths of this year's estimated sales tax revenue amounts to $35,000,000.

The budget estimate for hospitals is $34,991,169.

"That's only a few thousand difference."

'VERY UNWISE'

"These fellows are very unwise if they want to hitch their payments to sales tax," Mr. Martin added. "It could be very awkward if there was a year when sales tax collections dropped. They would have to take a cut."

He said the hospitals are getting every cent they're entitled to.

They are also getting warnings about spending, he said. Mr. Martin said he would make a speech on the subject at the BCHA convention in Victoria next month.

DEFICITS
Most hospitals in B.C. are well administered, but there are some which incur deficits "beyond their authority," said Mr. Martin.

"The trouble is they've shot costs ahead."

"They get more money every year; if they increase costs that's their responsibility."

The hospital officials complained that they do not have enough working capital.

"It was never government responsibility to supply working capital," said Mr. Martin.

"That's the responsibility of the hospitals."

"Those that use it up so their reserves are non-existent are being highly unbusinesslike."

TONY HUNT

HIS LAST WISH

Mungo's Protege Appointed

The last wish of Mungo Martin, world famous totem carver and chieftain of the Kwakiutl Tribe, was fulfilled today.

His great-grandson, 20-year-old Tony Hunt, was appointed assistant carver at Thunderbird Park and went to work immediately.

"I want to do this for the rest of my life," said Tony, chipping away at a fragrant hunk of cedar in the workshop of his father, chief carver, Henry Hunt.

It was as the old chief wished it. On his deathbed in St. Joseph's Hospital, he said he hoped the B.C. government would hire Tony as assistant, and added:

"I have taught him all I know."

Chief Mungo died on Aug. 16, at 83, and was buried with full tribal honors in Mountain View Cemetery, Alert Bay.

FINE CARVER

"Tony is an excellent carver and he belongs here," said Wilson Duff, anthropologist at the Provincial Museum, when he called at the Hunts' workshop this morning.

Henry Hunt was greatly pleased that his son is now working with him.

"We shall do good work together," he said.

Henry worked with Chief Mungo and his son David, on a number of famous totems, including the world's Tallest Totem Pole (127½ feet) in Beacon Hill Park, and the 100-foot royal totem carved for Queen Elizabeth and shipped to England in 1958.

After David was drowned in 1959, Henry continued working with Chief Mungo until his last fatal illness.

Esquimalt Mother of Five Dies, Three Injured in Head-On Crash

Youths Injured, $2,500 Damage In Two Crashes

Two accidents on the Trans-Canada Highway within 30 minutes caused a total of $2,500 damage and sent two youths to hospital early Sunday morning.

The crashes occurred about a quarter of a mile apart.

Murray S. Turnbull, 17, of 1974 Broadmead, and Charles McGillivray, 18, of 2882 Leigh, were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after the car in which they were riding turned over on the Thetis Lake overpass at about 12:40 a.m.

Mr. Turnbull was driver of the small 1952 English model car. He was taken to hospital suffering from shock, and his companion with a right arm injury. Both were later released.

RICOCHETED
The accident occurred when Mr. Turnbull was turning left on to the Trans-Canada Highway from the merge leading from the old Island Highway. His car scraped 17 feet of guardrail on the far side of the overpass, ricocheted to the near side, taking out about eight yards of railing before coming to rest upside down on the highway.

Total damage was estimated at $1,000.

"Second accident occurred at 1:10 a.m. near the entrance to Thetis Lake Park on the highway, when the southbound vehicle driven by Maeva Singh Sundher, 3210 Bellevue, collided head-on with one driven by Roland F. Chaput, Calvert Road, Sooke.

Mr. Sundher's vehicle burst into flame on impact. There were no injuries.

The Sundher car was heading south on the highway, passing another vehicle at the moment of impact. He attempted to cut in to the line of traffic before hitting the Chaput car, but his rear end swung around into the path of the vehicle, he told police.

Damage to both cars was estimated at $1,500.

Road Paving Experiment In Oak Bay

A street paving experiment in Oak Bay could reduce certain future maintenance bills by two-thirds, or make possible three times the work now done.

Victoria Paving Ltd. is putting a half-inch asphalt top on two blocks of Musgrave between Estevan and Dorset, in place of the customary 1½ inches of paving material used in resurfacing old streets.

GONE ABOUT ...
Engineer Geoffrey White said the old paving is thought to have settled as far as it will go and the tighter topping should be expected to endure.

"It will take the smaller bumps out of the surface, but not the dips," he said.

If it proves successful, the repair method will be used on other Oak Bay streets of similar age, but not the very old ones where there are no curbs, or where the asphalt is in particularly poor condition.

RCMP Constable Hurt As Car Hit on Curve

A mother of five was killed and three others were injured, including an RCMP constable, in a two-car, head-on crash, on Esquimalt Road Saturday night.

Dead is Mrs. Doris M. Bendall, 33, of 512 Fraser. She was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

There will be an inquest, probably Wednesday morning. The accident occurred on Esquimalt Road near the intersection of Macaulay Street at about 9 p.m.

Also in the car in which Mrs. Bendall was riding was her husband, Kenneth D. Bendall. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injury. His condition was described as "good."

'FAIRLY GOOD'
Elizabeth Harrison, 448 Admirals Road, passenger in the Bendall car, is in "fairly good" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, where she was admitted with a fractured breast-bone and right leg, and internal injuries.

Sole occupant of the other car, marine Constable Malcolm Joseph La Freniere, of the RCMP vessel Victoria, was taken to DVA Hospital. His injuries are not thought to be serious. It is believed he was returning to his vessel, moored at HMC Dockyard, when the accident occurred.

The Bendall car was heading into Victoria on Esquimalt Road and rounding a left-hand curve at Macaulay when the accident occurred.

The other car was travelling in the opposite direction.

INTO WINDSHIELD
The two women in the Bendall car were smashed into the windshield by the impact, shattering the glass.

Mrs. Bendall is survived by the husband, a rigger at Yarrow's Ltd.; a daughter, Donna, and four sons, Darrell, Keith, Kim and David. She also leaves seven sisters and two brothers. She had lived in Victoria 15 years.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by McCall Bros.

Chief Dispatcher For E & N Railway Dies In Siccamous

A. "Monty" Thompson, well-known railroad and resident of Victoria since 1953, died at Siccamous a few days ago while returning from Calgary with Mrs. Thompson and a party of friends over the Rogers Pass.

Funeral services will be held in Vancouver Tuesday at 3 p.m. with Rev. C. R. McGillivray of Victoria, officiating.

Mr. Thompson was born in the station dwelling at Whonock, B.C., where his father was appointed agent in 1899. He joined the Canadian Pacific on the Kettle Valley division in 1916 after a period of service with the R.A.F.

Subsequently he was chief dispatcher at Revelstoke, assistant superintendent at North Bend and supervisor of transportation, Vancouver.

He was made chief dispatcher in Victoria for the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway on July 1, 1953.

Liersch Named To UBC Board Of Governors

One of the members of B.C.'s recent Royal Commission on education has been appointed to the board of governors of the University of B.C., Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced today.

He is John E. Liersch, who is vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd.

Mr. Liersch was a member of the Chant Royal Commission which spent three years conducting a comprehensive inquiry into B.C.'s school system.

He replaces Phyllis G. Ross, wife of former Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross, on the UBC board. Mrs. Ross resigned when she was elected chancellor.

CHERRY TREE ATTACK CALLED 'NASTY CASE OF VANDALISM'

A senseless attack damaging three 15-year-old boulevard trees over the weekend was reported today by parks administrator W. H. Warren.

"Someone took a saw and deliberately cut down the smaller branches of three flowering cherry trees in the 1200 block Bay Street," he said.

"With a little luck the trees may come back but they'll have to grow new 'heads,'" he said.

Mr. Warren said the attack follows a similar case of vandalism last spring only a block away when someone took an axe to several boulevard trees.

"The property owners, unfortunately, didn't see or hear anything in this case but they're sure heartbroken."

"It's a nasty case of vandalism."

Will Sadist Tire Of Killing Cats?

Reward money shot to more than $400 today with mounting fears that a sadistic cat mutilator may next turn to human victims.

Voluntary donations to a Cats' Protection League reward were $160 this morning and still climbing as the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals announced a $250 reward.

Capt. J. D. Prentice, president of the Victoria branch of SPCA, said the money would be paid to anyone "with information leading to the conviction of the people responsible for these appalling acts of mutilation of cats."

For the past month, reports of cat-mangling, live-vivisection and unnatural deaths and disappearance have shocked cat lovers of Greater Victoria.

EYES GONE
The sixth and one of the most revolting cases of mutilation was reported at the weekend by a Saanich woman, who told the Cats' Protection League her pet died with eyes and tongue missing after finding its way home after a two-day absence.

Mrs. Helen Kerswell, secretary of the league, said members and people at large were contributing to the reward money—"people who are very upset about the whole business."

She said the person responsible must be "sadistic, homicidal."

"Sooner or later he will be tired of killing cats and will turn to children and women. We could have something like the Boston strangler."

"Most case histories of people like that show that they tortured animals when young."

"It is not a case of whether you like cats or do not like cats. It's gone beyond that. It's gotten to be a matter of personal safety," Mrs. Kerswell said.

"The kindest thing you could say is that the person is insane and should be in an institution," the SPCA president said.

He said in some cases it appeared that the cats had been caught in some sort of trap.

A few weeks ago a cat was found with its stomach slit open and fur burned from its back. Another also bore a deep cut on its chest.

DEAR ABBY . . .

He's a Fast Worker!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a travelling salesman and makes a very good living selling on the road. His weakness is young girls, and in 18 years of marriage this is his third jam. A girl in another town claims he got her in trouble. He says he isn't sure he is responsible as he saw her only once. We have five children and my husband is 47. If this is made public it could cost him his job. How do we get out of this mess without having it in all the papers?

FRANTIC

BE SMART—

Fur notes frolic in the fall with carefree abandon, livening up many a coat dress. One, in grey flannel, turns especially elegant when edged with luxurious grey Persian lamb. A snappy yellow wool vividly contrasts with its rich mink scarf collar.

DEAR FRANTIC: You need a lawyer! And your husband may have another mouth to feed, so he had better start making more calls and fewer stops.

DEAR ABBY: I answered an ad in the newspaper and am now having second thoughts about it. A retired gentleman, 62 and a semi-invalid, advertised for an unmarried woman between 30 and 45 who could drive a car and travel with him. It further stated that she must have a pleasant personality and dress well. He requested that she enclose a recent photograph of herself. The position, it stated, paid very well and would be a pleasure for the right woman. How can I check up on this man if he decides to hire me?

AVAILABLE: Ask the gentleman to furnish character references on himself. If he is honorable, he won't object. If he is not, it's best that you find out now. If the job is really "a pleasure," a woman has the right to know with whom she may have that pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns a small bar and makes a nice living from it, but he has to work from 12 noon until 2 in the morning six days a week. Maybe I shouldn't complain because he doesn't gamble, drink or chase women, but we have four kids who don't even know they've got a father. I would like to have

TODAY'S RECIPE

CANNED PEARS

Wash, peel and cut pears into halves or quarters. Remove cores. Pack into clean hot jars, cut side down and overlapping. Fill to within half inch of top. Thin or medium syrup is best (1 1/2 or 2 cups water to 1 cup sugar). Remove air bubbles by working table knife blade down sides of the jar in several places. Clean off rims and add just lids according to the manufacturer's instructions. Process in boiling water bath, timing after the water returns to boil.

ing. Allow 25 minutes for pints, 30 minutes for quarts. Remove jars and let stand three or four inches apart while cooking, otherwise heat will be retained between jars and pears may be overcooked and take on a pinkish tinge.

WHY GROW OLD?

Perfume can be a girl's best friend, especially since many women who CANNOT afford diamonds CAN afford perfume!

Few people realize the loving care and experimentation which goes into the making of a good perfume. Sometimes the perfumer will spend years working on a fragrance before being satisfied with it.

Judging by sales records more and more women are using perfume. During the last four years there has been an increase of more than 30 million dollars in money spent for fragrance. Most women enjoy it themselves and also use it because most men like it.

Perfume is the most concentrated scent and the one which lasts longest. Toilet water is much weaker since it is diluted to a great extent with alcohol. Generally speaking, cologne is the weakest of all.

The selection of perfume should be a highly individual matter since tastes in fragrance vary greatly, and also, the same perfume reacts differently on different women. Body chemistry changes the scent. For this reason, it is just as important for a woman to try on her perfume before buying it as it is for her to try on a dress or a hat.

Some women find a favorite perfume and like to become identified with it. This is usually an in-between scent, not too light or heavy. However, a perfume wardrobe which includes several fragrances seems to be the mode today.

When perfumes are chosen with care and used with taste they add much to the charming impression a woman makes.

FAINT CRY FROM WOMEN OF RUSSIA

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet press finally disclosed yesterday what every Russian woman knows—"It's difficult to be pretty in the Soviet Union."

That's what Nedelya, the Sunday supplement of the government newspaper Izvestia, complained in an article bearing government planners for the short supply of cosmetics, nylons, and other items for the fair sex.

"There is an old saying to the effect that if a woman wants to be beautiful, she must suffer," the article said, "and this applies to our day."

Among other scarcities and indignities, the newspaper complained about Russian gloves. "How can a woman who wants to be pretty wear these ugly gloves made of leather that turn a pretty hand into a coarse paw?" it asked.

"Every woman craves pretty clothes, nice makeup and jewelry," Nedelya said. "What we point out is not a question of a woman's caprice but a demand of our time, a demand of increased culture."

Women Form International Peace Committee Headed by Canadian

MONTREAL (CP)—An international peace committee of women to be headed by a Canadian has been established by a conference of women from 17 countries.

Mrs. Helen Tucker of Toronto, president and co-founder of the Voice of Women, will resign to become chairman of an international liaison committee for world peace.

Her resignation was announced during the second annual meeting of the Voice of Women at the University of Montreal.

Mme. Therese Casgrain of Montreal was elected president and headquarters of the movement was moved from Toronto to Montreal.

The liaison committee, proposed in a resolution approved by 51 delegates attending the week-long conference here and at St. Donat, Que., is designed to support international co-operation year proposed at the United Nations by Afghanistan, India, Ghana and Nepal.

It will consist of members from the United Kingdom, the United States, Norway, Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Nigeria, India and a third neutral country to be named later.

A resolution made by the conference charged that the government sheltered program gave a "false sense of security."

It also called on the government to remove Bomarc missile bases from Canadian soil and said Canada should become a member of the neutral bloc of nations.

Dr. Margaret Mead, United States anthropologist and author, as guest speaker at the conference, said if women of the world wanted peace, it was their job to cultivate the "badly needed patience" in the world and be content with creating a climate in which peace could develop.

Women must work primarily as women, she said, and not

Dr. G. H. Grant Castigates Today's 'Too-Narrow Shoes'

TORONTO (CP)—Style-conscious girls and young women of Canada are courting disaster with their modern shoes, a Victoria doctor says.

Dr. Gordon H. Grant, a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons (Canada), writing in the Sept. 15 edition of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, says in the conclusion of an article regarding common deformities of the foot:

"Literally, it is true that poliomyelitis in its worst epidemic period produced only a minute fraction of the disability likely to be evoked among Canadian women of the future by the too-narrow shoes being worn today by like a group of professionals "who happened to be women." "We live in the kind of world which no one knows how to organize yet," Dr. Mead said. "The world leaders want war yet none of them know how to produce peace." The trouble at the Geneva disarmament conference was that no one knew "how to get out of the lock."

adolescent girls and young women."

Dr. Grant, writing about the "acquired defects" of the foot, says that "for all practical purposes the modern shoe can be blamed for most of the acquired foot troubles of mankind."

Bride Chooses Peach Color Theme

Peach-colored roses in the bride's bouquet set the floral theme for the recent wedding of Joyce Maria Kunaleich and Alexander Watson Borthwick in St. Patrick's Church.

Baskets of peach and white gladioli were used in decorations. Fr. M. J. McNamara heard the marriage vows.

"On This Day O. Beautiful Mother" and "Ave Maria" were sung by Donald Mulcahy. Accompanist was Mrs. Gill.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kunaleich, 808 Dominion Road, and Mr. and Mrs. David Borthwick, 3434 Cardiff Place.

Iridescent sequins trimmed the high neckline of the lace bodice on the bride's floor-length gown. Sleeves ended in lily points and sequins enhanced the organly skirt which puffed in the back. A bouffant veil was held with a crown of pearls and iridescent jewels.

Bouquets of carnations in peach tones were carried by attendants wearing short white gowns. Completing their ensembles were peach-toned whistles.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. J.

Cole, was matron of honor, and Miss Gayle Bartram, bridesmaid.

Best man was John Clarke and ushering guests to their pews was Jim Laing.

Maurice Leeson proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Holyrood House. Peach gladioli and roses and a three-tier wedding cake, topped with roses, provided the decor.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose a white feather hat and gloves and brown accessories to complement her peach two-piece suit.

After a honeymoon trip up Island the couple will make their home at 3234 Quadra St. Here to attend the wedding from New Westminster were Mr. and Mrs. G. Borthwick and Mrs. A. W. Borthwick.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

HONOLULU — There was this fellow from Boston who came here, and fell in love with the sun and the surf — and went back just long enough to say farewell — and returned to Hawaii and Wai-kiki for life.

He was thoroughly shocked when the great Hawaiian hero, Duke Kahanamoku, confessed in my presence the other day that he now locks his doors at night — right here in what the Bostonian thinks of as Heaven.

"You disillusion me about Honolulu," the Bostonian said to Duke.

"I never lock my doors and I don't lock my car," he continued. "I have some car keys — he has a white convertible — but I don't know where they are."

"You'll get a ticket," warned the Duke, who was sheriff for many years after bringing fame to Hawaii as Olympic swimming champion.

"Yes," nodded Duke's wife, Nadine. "The law is you can get a ticket for leaving your keys in your car."

"But I'm not leaving my keys in my car," the Bostonian retorted. "I don't have any car keys!"

The Duke grinned. He's 72 now, just recovering from brain surgery, about to start on a world tour as Hawaii's Good Will Ambassador. He used to have tough questions like that when he was sheriff. "It wasn't my doing," Duke said. "But sometimes a judge would sentence a man to serve his jail term at night, and go to his job in the day time."

"Somehow, in the day time, they'd drink, and they'd come back to jail drunk. Sometimes they'd be arrested for drunkenness while they were prisoners out working on their jobs!"

Duke laughed — he knew Honolulu when it was a small city.

When he was sheriff, Duke made speeches never more than one minute long, and when running for re-election, he frequently left town at campaign time on a platform of "not bothering people asking them to listen to me." The voters re-elected him with monotonous regularity.

A few nights ago at a dinner honoring him, Duke forgot himself in his emotion and made a long speech.

"Must have been three or four minutes," Duke said. "I got all mixed up. I mean to say 'Everybody'll be all right as long as you keep a smile on your face' and instead, I said, 'as long as you keep a smile on your face.' Then I said, 'How'd that come in there?' and I talked too long..."

Duke's going back to one-minute speeches, a practice I hope he introduces to all other ambassadors, good will and bad will, when he hits New York on his tour.

REPEAT HUMAN PHRASES

Dolphin Chit-Chat Too Fast for Us

By VERN HAUGLAND
WASHINGTON (AP) — The dolphin, a brainy creature of the sea with a high-pitched, high-speed voice, was chosen Sunday by the U.S. Space Agency as a tool for research on communications between man and other forms of life.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration awarded an $80,700, one-year contract for the work to the Communications Research Institute of Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

The study will be directed by Dr. John C. Lilly, a noted authority on the dolphin, better known as the porpoise.

Dr. Dale W. Jenkins, chief of NASA's environmental biology programs, said Lilly had determined that dolphins talk to each other, but at a rate eight times faster than that of human beings.

Jenkins said that when a dolphin has been properly conditioned, the animal apparently tries to repeat the human phrases.

The replies are likely to come out as an unintelligible series of squeaks, squeals, quacks and blats.

Jenkins said that when the tapes were slowed down to half or quarter speed, however, Lilly found an unexpected factor.

The dolphin apparently had taken the human vocalization and compressed it as to time. By slowing the tape and lowering the pitch, the dolphin's voice came back in clear repetition of the human words.

"We have not yet determined whether there are any communications directed at earth from outer space. If we do make contact, we will have to work out systems of understanding," Jenkins said.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Margaret Colosimo, age 15, of Hialeah, Utah, for her question:

What makes a whirlwind?

A whirlwind can do its merry dance almost anywhere, but it is more likely to dance for us in the desert. On a summer's day, you may see a whole ballet troupe of whirlwinds whirling over the deserts and prairies. Actually, of course, we do not see a whirlwind. We see the dust and leaves, scraps of paper and other debris caught up in its swirling dance.

A frisky whirlwind can carry a sheet of newspaper spiraling up 20, 30 or 40 feet. It may waltz with its dancing partner a block or more down the street. Then it tires. Paper and leaves, dust and leaves and other dancing debris are dropped to the ground in a swirling heap. Rarely, if ever, is a whirlwind strong enough to do any serious damage.

A whirlwind is a weather event. But compared with the winds and storms that sweep over the world, it is just a kitten with all the playful antics of a kitten. However, even the smallest weather event is caused by temperature changes and circulation in the air.

The air, as we know, is warmest near the ground and the higher we go the cooler it gets. Warm air expands, becoming thinner and lighter. This is the air's method for cooling off on a hot day, for as it expands it loses some of its heat. Warm air will expand in all possible directions, but a patch of warm air near the ground tends to expand upward and rise.

On a summer day, the sun heats up many patches of ground, some more than others. A sandy hillside, say, gets hotter than a shady gully. And the air gets its heat from the ground it touches. Here and there we get a small mass of warm air which begins to expand in a rising column.

little dancing partners are dropped on the ground, perhaps a mile from where they started.

Whirlwinds may twirl in any direction and in a small way they may help to cool off the blistering heat of a summer day. They begin, remember, at the ground and carry a batch of the warmest air aloft to cooler regions. Even 100 of these kittenish weather events cannot do much to reduce the heat, but a sweltering day on the desert would be somewhat worse without them.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Sharon True Coulson, age 13, of Ottawa, Canada, for her question:

How tall is a banana tree?

A tree lives from year to year and produces a new crop of seeds with every season. The banana plant produces only one harvest and then dies. It is really a herb, though it grows as big as a tree. It takes a little more than a year, to grow from a rootstock to its full size and prepare a cluster of perhaps 180 delicious, canary-yellow bananas.

The banana plant looks somewhat like a palm. When full grown, its trunk may be 30 feet, as tall as five tall men standing on each other's heads. The sturdy column may be 16 inches wide and the top will be crowned with perhaps 20 bright green leaves, each two feet wide and 12 feet long. Smaller banana varieties may be 15 feet tall with trunks eight inches wide.

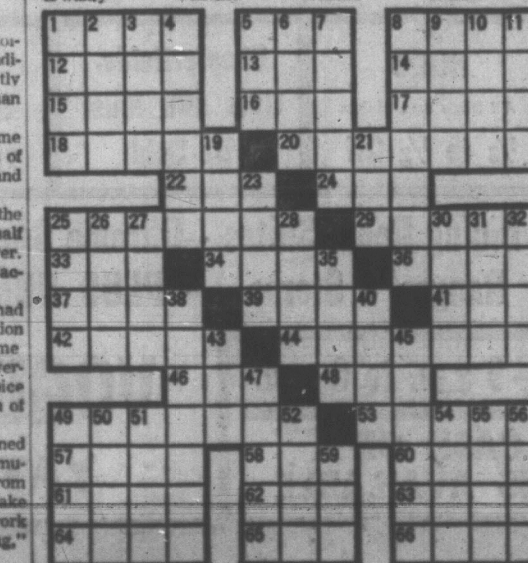

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's middle age when your clothes don't fit—but it's you who needs the alterations.

EARL'S PEARLS: The fellow who says he's learned to understand women probably paid plenty for the lessons. Comedienne Phyllis Diller suspects she had too many drinks at a party: "When I got home I tried for an hour to take off my slacks over my head" ... That's earl, brother.

'Far Out' Gardeners Invade Flower Show

Gardeners can be every bit as abstract as the most modern of painters, entries at the Victoria Horticultural Society fall show revealed.

The show ended Saturday evening with an auction of flowers.

In the flower arrangement class, exhibitors competed in making designs on such subjects as a trip to the moon, space age and a toast to the future.

In one class entitled "mono-rail," plants were used to make horizontal or diagonal designs suggesting speed.

The big winners in the flower arrangement class were Mrs. T. T. Vaulkhard and Mrs. Eleanor Metcalfe.

NEGROES DUMP OWN GARBAGE AT TOWN HALL

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of Brooklyn Negroes dumped several hundred pounds of junk on the steps of Borough Hall Saturday in protest against what they claimed were irregular garbage collections in Negro neighborhoods.

Demonstration was under the leadership of Oliver Leeds, Sr., chairman of the Brooklyn chapter of the Congress for Racial Equality.

He was given a traffic summons for illegally parking his auto, and his wife was arrested for littering the sidewalk.

Castle Yields Priceless Works

PRAGUE (AP)—The official Czech news agency CTK says more than 50 old masters, including works by Rubens and Veronese, have been brought to light after hundreds of years in an ancient castle.

CTK said the priceless works were discovered in the vaults of Prague Castle, 17th century seat of Rudolf II of Bohemia.

BRITAIN CONTINUES PROGRAM

LONDON (UPI) — British health authorities said today they plan no restrictions on oral polio vaccine.

"We have been using this type of vaccine since February," a British health ministry spokesman said, "and no deaths have been reported which could be connected with it."

About four million Britons are believed to have taken the vaccine.

Mother of 5 Slain in Home

EDMONTON (CP) — The bludgeoned body of a mother of five children was found Saturday in a house in northeast Edmonton after a milkman discovered a note pinned to a door.

The victim was identified by police as Mrs. Lottie Preszlak, about 40, wife of post office employee Peter Preszlak.

Milkman Victor Howlett found this note pinned to the door:

"Don't wake the children. Call police. Somebody is dead in the house."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some states have decided to discontinue use of Sabin type II polio vaccine, but state and local officials in a number of places have adopted a "wait and see" policy.

Use of Sabin oral vaccine types I and II will continue to be used generally, checks across the United States indicate.

Reaction was mixed after the U.S. public health service announced in Washington Saturday that II confirmed cases of type III polio provided sufficient evidence "to indicate that at least some of these cases have been caused by type III vaccines."

The special advisory committee of the health service said all II confirmed cases occurred in adults. The service recommended limiting the use of type III vaccine to immunization programs for preschool and school-age children. Continued use of types I and II for everyone was recommended by the health service.

Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze—whose health, education and welfare department embraces the public health service—said Sunday on a television program that the odds are one in 1,000,000 against an adult who has taken type II Sabin oral vaccine developing the disease.

Celebrezze said that with these odds, he would be willing to take the vaccine himself.

Africa's Congo River and its tributaries have a total drainage area of about 1,450,000 square miles.

BABY GIRL ATTACKED BY POISONOUS ANTS

CENTREVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A baby girl bitten more than a thousand times by fire ants is fighting for her life in a hospital here.

The poisonous ants swarmed over two-month-old Brigitte Anne Foster as she slept in a crib. Her mother, Mrs. Jerry Foster, discovered the ants early Thursday when she went to feed the baby.

Her hysterical screams awakened her husband. Neither remembers how they got the ants off. Their 13-month-old daughter, Simone, was bitten on her legs and feet but did not require hospital treatment.

Doctors said Brigitte was bitten more than 1,000 times and some ants also entered her stomach. Ants had eaten patches of hair off her head.

THALIDOMIDE WITHDRAWAL DELAYED IN CANADA

More Deformed Babies Predicted

LISBON (Reuters)—A West German doctor says more babies deformed by thalidomide may be expected in Canada and Japan because of an "incredible" delay in withdrawing the drugs from these markets.

Prof. Heinz Weicker of Bonn was reporting to the 10th International Congress of Pediatrics which ended a six-day meeting today.

He declared: "In November, 1961, thalidomide was withdrawn from the market in Germany and Great Britain but, incredible to say, not before March, 1962, in Canada and May, 1962, in Japan."

He said children affected by thalidomide should total 7,500, including about 5,000 in West Germany and about 700 in Britain.

EAST BERLIN ROCKED BY MYSTERY BLASTS

BERLIN—West German police reported Sunday that two big explosions during the night rocked the East Berlin area where some of the Communist regime's government offices are located.

The blasts sent East German border guards scurrying about but West German police said they did not know what caused the blasts.

New Blast Blamed On Sons

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—About 600 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors found themselves in a familiar position today—homeless and blamed for new terrorist activities.

They thought their immediate troubles were over Sunday when caretaker Jimmy Dennis, 69, said they could stay at the deserted Boys' Club farm he was guarding near Hope, B.C.

But agents for the man who is purchasing the farm said later the radical group was not welcome. Arrangements were made for civilian guards to be put around the farm.

Hope is 41 miles east of the Sons' destination, Agassiz, where many of their number are serving terms at Mountain Prison for terrorism.

An explosion Sunday tore a hole in the base of a 5,000-gallon oil storage tank at Grand Forks. The tank was operated by an Orthodox Doukhobor co-operative.

"It was no accident," said Orthodox leader John Verigin who blamed the trekking Sons for both incidents.

But RCMP said they did not know whether the explosion was deliberately set. RCMP estimated damage at about $25,000. No one was hurt.

Dennis, former cowboy, jockey and prospector, was not worried over the possibility he may lose his caretaker's job.

"I don't care..."

"I don't care if they're Doukhobors or what they are. They're human beings and they've no place to go," he said.

And "Big Fanny" Storgoff didn't appear to be perturbed by opposition—including extra barbed wire strung around Mountain Prison—to the Doukhobor trek she leads.

SEN. KEATING
... flights 'intolerable'

Canada Rapped On Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator Kenneth Keating, New York Republican, today described as "intolerable" Canadian government action in allowing Russian supply planes to fly over Canada en route to Cuba.

Testifying before a joint session of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees, he also said the United States should call for "an immediate meeting of NATO ministers" in an effort to halt trading with Cuba. He said the United States "should mince no words."

Keating said it is "absolutely ridiculous" that NATO and other free-world nations supply shipping to the Soviet Union "to create a military base in Cuba."

He also declared: "It is intolerable for the Canadian government to permit the flight of Soviet planes over Canada in order to supply additional equipment to Cuba" and for Canada to supply pilot observers or guides "for the flight of light bombers or transport planes to be added to the Cuban Air Force."

HITS OTHER ALLIES

Keating also denounced the chartering of West German ships to Russia and criticized what he said was the action of the Greek government in providing "both shipping and refuelling facilities for Russian cargo vessels on the way to Cuba."

The Senate groups met in a closed session to draft a congressional stand on the Soviet-aided military buildup in Communist Cuba.

Police Fire On Students

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Forty persons were injured when police fired on a student-led crowd of demonstrators in Dacca, East Pakistan, after tear gas and baton charges failed to disperse them, it was reported here today.

Authorities called in the army to take control of part of the city, the reports said. The students were demanding lower school fees and changes in recently introduced educational reforms.

Canada Ready To Act as Host

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today proposed a world-wide trading conference "at the earliest practicable date" with Canada as host country.

Unveiling what appeared to be his "alternative plan," Diefenbaker suggested to the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers that an invitation should be extended to all member-nations of the Commonwealth, the European Economic Community, the European Free Trade Area, the United States, Japan and like-minded nations that wished to participate.

The meetings would "give consideration to how to deal with the trading problems before us."

Refers to Kennedy Proposals

Diefenbaker outlined his globe-girdling plan in opening this morning's plenary session at Marlborough House. Prime Minister Macmillan and other delegates also spoke.

Diefenbaker prefaced his suggestion for world talks by referring to the plans of President Kennedy for expanding world trade. He added:

"I believe, representing as we do members of the Commonwealth and a large proportion of the world's population, we should endeavor, on a spirit of co-operation, to give world leadership in a concerted effort to meet the difficult and diversified trade problems of Commonwealth countries."

He said his proposed conference should prepare the way "for non-discriminatory tariff negotiations on a most-favored-nations basis, as the United States has suggested."

In referring to the conference,

"This should prepare the way for the prospective non-discriminatory tariff negotiations on a most-favored-nations basis."

"The European community is already a reality. There has been no question here about the desirability of that community, as it now exists, carrying forward its objectives. However, it does seem that if we are to achieve still wider and more satisfactory trading arrangements before 1970, steps in the direction of further world-wide trading arrangements now should be undertaken."

Diefenbaker indicated the idea would be applicable whether or not Britain decided to join the EEC.

Pointing to the negotiations which Britain plans to resume in Brussels for entry into the EEC, Diefenbaker said "substantial further improvement" will be needed in view of undertakings given by Britain for safeguarding the Commonwealth interests.

He said "little has yet been agreed with the six" regarding tariffs on raw materials and on processed foods. There seemed clear scope for negotiations more favorable to Commonwealth interests. Improvements also were needed in relation to temperate agricultural products.

Canada also hoped and expected that some improvement was possible regarding manufactured products, on which provisional agreements have already been reached in Brussels.

Canada Would Go To New PMs Meet

Diefenbaker said that if it were the "general desire," Canada would be prepared to participate in a further meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers. It would also co-operate in any other method of assessing the results of the Brussels negotiations.

Prime Minister Macmillan summed up for the defence, ending a two-hour and 20-minute meeting.

Reuters news agency quoted conference sources as saying the atmosphere was calm, restrained and friendly—in marked contrast with last week's quarrels and frayed nerves.

However, the Associated Press described the debate as "heated." It quoted officials as saying the best Britain could expect was a general declaration acknowledging its right to join the Common Market—provided she can meet certain conditions and gain specific safeguards for Commonwealth trade.

Macmillan spent most of Sunday writing the speech which conference sources said would aim for Commonwealth backing despite devastating criticism of the British entry negotiations which resume next month in Brussels.

It was understood today there would be no immediate communique on the Common Market issue. Delegates would continue work on a statement, which might be issued Tuesday or at the end of the conference on Wednesday.

But Rashid Kawawa, Tanganyika's premier, promptly issued a statement saying East Africa did not want associate membership in the European Economic Community.

He said: "Our concern is to maintain our economic links with Britain, which are very strong and which we value very much."

Macmillan said he recognized the importance of the following:

1. Expansion of world trade.
2. The responsibility of aid.

EMPHASIS ON TRADE

Chamber Starts Drive for Jobs

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor
VANCOUVER—An intensive investigation into ways and means of stepping up economic growth to meet job requirements of Canada's rapidly expanding labor force got under way here today as the Canadian Chamber of Commerce opened its 33rd annual meeting.

Focus of attention today is the national policy committee of the chamber comprising 50 delegates proportionally representing individual chambers and boards of trade throughout the country.

Victoria's voting delegate on the policy committee is John A. Wallace, newly-elected president of the Victoria Chamber. Other Victoria delegates at the meeting are past president A. E. Walters, Hugh R. Stephen and G. Fitzpatrick Dunn.

In line with the theme of this year's meeting—Goals for Canada—bulk of the policy declarations to be debated concern strengthening the economy with an emphasis on increased trade.

A highly-controversial resolution put forward by the Stratford Chamber of Commerce proposing what would be, in effect, complete trade reciprocity between all nations of the western hemisphere, is to be considered this evening by the committee.

FEW COMMITTED

Few of the delegates so far are committed to supporting this proposal which is expected to meet stormy opposition from representatives of highly-industrialized eastern Canadian centres.

Stratford proposes that the Canadian government take the initiative in establishing, "within the next 10 to 15 years, complete trading reciprocity, free of customs tariffs."

It is acknowledged that the primary goal would be free trade between Canada and the United States. But the Stratford group believes that by setting up a multilateral agreement covering the whole hemisphere.

Down-Under Underdog Still Down

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—For an hour today it appeared America's Cup defender Weatherly and Australian challenger Gretel were going to sail an unofficial full course race in the waters off the Rhode Island coast.

Both 12-metre racing sloops came out of Newport Harbor at 11 a.m. and shortly after that Australian skipper Jack Sturrock initiated a tacking duel, picking up the U.S. winner of the first race from about 100 yards astern and to windward.

Weatherly's skipper, Bus Mosbacher, appeared to accept the situation as an informal challenge, and the two boats worked eight miles to windward in approximately 45 minutes. The distance covered is the same as the two boats will cover on the first leg of Tuesday's triangular course.

When the Australian challenger decided to call it off and turn downwind, the U.S. defender had opened up a lead of approximately 600 yards, a gain of 500 yards from their relative positions at the start of their impromptu match.

BUILDING COLLAPSES; 15 DEAD, 11 MISSING

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—At least 15 persons were killed and 13 others injured today when a four-storey office building collapsed. Another 11 were missing and feared dead in the wreckage.

One eyewitness said a wall of the building started crumbling, and then the concrete floors collapsed toward a big excavation prepared for the building of a new house.

"I saw employees at their desks, sliding down the floor along with the furniture and falling in the air."

THE OCTOPUS AND THE FALSE TEETH

'You May Not Believe This, But ...'

LONDON (AP)—Kenneth Blake ate breakfast today with a set of false teeth once worn by an octopus.

"I'm not asking anybody to believe this story," said Blake, "but it's true and here are my choppers to prove it."

Six weeks ago, Blake went to Loano on the Italian Riviera for his vacation. He went swimming off the beach and a big wave whipped out his false teeth.

He looked in vain for those teeth.

Four days went by, and it was time for him and his family to return to Britain. Toothless and dejected he came back.

At work, he told a friend, Gerald Farrell about the lost teeth. Farrell and Blake both work for a firm making railroad coaches.

Farrell said he too would be vacationing in Loano and said as a joke:

"I'll keep an eye out for the choppers."

On his first day in Loano, Farrell sat on the beach where his friend's teeth had disappeared.

"I was watching some fishermen," he said. "They were spearing things in the water. Finally, they speared an octopus."

"I couldn't believe my eyes. For when they hauled up the octopus there in one of his tentacles was a set of false teeth. As best I could I told the fishermen how my friend lost his teeth. They handed them over."

Returning to England last weekend, Farrell called on Blake and told his strange story and handed over the teeth.

"I couldn't believe my eyes," said Blake. "They fit. They're mine. But I bet you won't believe me."

Mister Diefenbaker's trade offer seems 't' be a case o' too much, too late.

ELDERLY MAN CHARGED

B.C. Doctor Knifed In Murder Attempt

REVELSTOKE (CP)—Bruno Pratico, 78, was charged with attempted murder following a knife attack on a 39-year-old doctor at the post office here Saturday.

Police said Dr. William T. Armstrong was bending over to remove mail from his box when a man slashed him in the neck with a five-inch hunting knife. The knife just missed the carotid artery, which supplies the brain with blood.

"If it had been a quarter of an inch closer, it could have killed him," police said.

As the doctor turned to face his attacker he was cut a second time, on the cheek. He was in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Centennial Flashback ...

Harry Keithly, the gambler accused of stabbing Jane Ashmore, is reported to have fled to the San Juans by canoe.

James Webster, senior member of the well-known boot and shoe firm of Webster and Co., was shot and killed last night by George Lawrence, just returned from the Cariboo. Lawrence said he mistook Webster for another man.

Rate of Gain Not Enough Say Experts

By JACK LEPLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Good, but not good enough — that was the reaction last week to the newest reports on the course of business.

Records were established by corporation profits and personal income. While this was encouraging, the rate of gain was not up to expectations.

Retail sales dipped slightly in August from the record level of July but stayed ahead of August, 1961.

Profits of corporations attained an annual rate of $50,900,000,000 in the April-June quarter, a period in which the stock market collapse occurred. In the preceding quarter the rate was $50,100,000,000.

The total income of all Americans climbed by $900,000,000 to an annual rate of $442,800,000,000 in August. However, there was a decline in manufacturing payrolls of $400,000,000 to $94,100,000,000.

Commerce Secretary Hodges called the figures "not entirely satisfactory, but I still think good."

Retail sales slipped in August to $19,600,000,000 from July's peak of $19,700,000,000, a drop of only 0.5 per cent. They were eight per cent above a year earlier.

A survey by the National Retail Merchants Association indicated that retailers look for a sales increase in the second half of this year. Seventy-one per cent of the 211 store executives polled put the anticipated boost at five per cent.

CAR PRODUCTION UP

Production of passenger cars spurred to an estimated 120,000 last week as assembly of 1963 models picked up speed. The output the week before was 65,221.

Steel output dipped the previous week, shortened by the Labor Day holiday. Production of 1,641,000 tons was 1.8 per cent below the preceding week.

In August, steel production totalled 7,100,000 tons, up from 6,174,187 in July and down from 8,660,527 in August 1961. In the first seven months of this year, shipment of finished steel products from mills amounted to 43,986,282 tons, a gain of 21 per cent over the last 1961 period.

Investment Total Soars, Says Bonner

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Capital investment in B.C. during 1962 now is expected to reach $1,400,000,000, $200,000,000 more than originally anticipated, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said here Friday.

Speaking at the annual convention of the B.C. Aviation Council, Mr. Bonner said that while the rest of Canada is being swept by austerity, B.C.'s economy continues to improve.

He said in 1962 per capita income in B.C. is expected to be only $10 less than in Ontario.

This year, Mr. Bonner said, might turn out to be the best so far in B.C.'s economic history.

He said 1962 vehicle sales are 24 per cent higher than in 1961. Other economic indicators such as fuel, clothing and appliances are also encouraging, he said.

AIRPORT TAKES SHAPE — The spidery outline of Toronto's new international airport shows up as work progresses on the $33 million project. WEEK ON MARKETS

Speculators Send Toronto Trading Totals Soaring

By PETER DUNN

Canadian Press Staff Writer
If, as is often said, there's safety in numbers, speculators on Canadian stock markets had reason to feel comfortable last week.

Certainly, the numbers were there. Avid speculators sent daily trading totals at Toronto soaring to an average topping 8,000,000 shares — heaviest since November, 1961, when the Lake Dufault frenzy reached its peak.

Volumes of 1,000,000 shares in one issue during a single session were not uncommon, and as the week progressed, the trading giants were joined by enthusiastic newcomers.

High on the list of favorite speculative targets were Nealon Mines, Purdex Explorations and Paramique Mines, all of which entered the select circle of 1,000,000-share daily traders. Nealon, working on a gold prospect in northern Quebec, jumped from 28 cents to a 1962 high of 65 cents by mid-week, then dropped to 44 cents for a gain of 15 cents.

Paramique announced plans to conduct diamond drilling operations on two copper prospects in Haiti, but despite its vigorous activity it remained unchanged on the week. Purdex touched a year's peak of 18 1/2 cents but slipped back in late trading for a gain of 5 cents at 13 1/2 cents.

Other major traders included Bibb Yukon Mines, Lexindin Gold and Lyndhurst Mining, all of which touched 1962 highs but faltered to close showing slight price changes.

Industrialists, forced into the background, found little support. The section's index dropped almost six points.

Papers, refining oils and pipelines were the only groups in which gains predominated, but the advances were mostly fractional.

Canadian Oil buoyed by a continuing flow of takeover rumors, climbed to $42.25 — highest since its listing on the exchange — then eased to $41.87 for a gain of $1 on the week.

BASE METALS LOWER
Base metals slipped moderately lower. The western oils list was dotted with fractional losses.

Total volume at Toronto was 40,411,288 shares compared with the previous week's 21,769,183.

SENIOR British trade commissioner in Canada, Kenneth McGregor, CMG, will arrive in Victoria Thursday during a six-day farewell visit. Mr. McGregor, who was appointed to his post in July, 1958, returns to Britain at the end of the year having completed his tour of duty. During his Victoria visit he will call on Lt. Gov. George Pearkes and members of the provincial government.

Cominco Builds Smelter In India

MONTREAL (CP) — The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Ltd. said Friday it has formed a company in India to build a $2,000,000 zinc smelter and refinery with an attached sulphuric acid plant.

The company said it will hold a 40-per-cent interest in the company, Cominco Indian Zinc Ltd. The plant, to be located at Alwaye in the state of Kerala in southwestern India, will have an annual capacity of 22,000 tons of zinc and 53,000 tons of sulphuric acid. It is due to be completed in late 1965.

MONEY TROUBLES 'YOUR OWN FAULT' HOSPITALS TOLD

Health Minister Eric Martin said today if B.C. hospitals are in financial trouble it's their own fault.

There has been no delay and no reduction in government payments, he said.

"Hospitals this year are receiving more income than ever in history."

He described as "utterly wrong" charges from hospital officials that they are not receiving two-fifths of provincial sales tax revenue.

"(When the tax was increased from three to five per cent in 1954, the government said the extra was to cover hospital insurance payments.)"

Vancouver Island hospital officials said they weren't getting the full two-fifths at a meeting here Saturday.

"I don't think there's any doubt we're not getting the two per cent," said Ian Dodds of Beaver Cove, president of the Vancouver Island Council of the B.C. Hospital Association.

TOO MUCH?

"If we got the full amount it might be more than we need."

Mr. Dodds said the hospitals were not getting the money allotted to them in the provincial budget.

The Island meeting followed a BCHA statement Friday that "many hospitals in B.C. are at this moment in grave financial trouble."

Mr. Martin said that two-fifths of this year's estimated sales tax revenue amounts to $35,000,000.

The budget estimate for hospitals is $34,991,169.

'VERY UNWISE'

"These fellows are very unwise if they want to hitch their payments to sales tax," Mr. Martin added. "It could be very awkward if there was a year when sales tax collections dropped. They would have to take a cut."

He said the hospitals are getting every cent they're entitled to.

They are also getting warnings about spending, he said.

Mr. Martin said he would make a speech on the subject at the BCHA convention in Penticton next month.

DEFICITS

Most hospitals in B.C. are well administered, but there are some which incur deficits "beyond their authority," said Mr. Martin.

"The trouble is they've shot costs ahead."

"They get more money every year; if they increase costs that's their responsibility."

The hospital officials complained that they do not have enough working capital.

"It was never government responsibility to supply working capital," said Mr. Martin.

"That's the responsibility of the hospitals."

TONY HUNT

HIS LAST WISH

Mungo's Protege Appointed

The last wish of Mungo Martin, world famous totem carver and chieftain of the Kwakiutl Tribe, was fulfilled today.

His great-grandson, 20-year-old Tony Hunt, was appointed assistant carver at Thunderbird Park and went to work immediately.

"I want to do this for the rest of my life," said Tony, chipping away at a fragrant hunk of cedar in the workshop of his father, chief carver, Henry Hunt.

It was as the old chief wished it. On his deathbed in St. Joseph's Hospital, he said he hoped the B.C. government would hire Tony as assistant, and added:

"I have taught him all I know."

Chief Mungo died on Aug. 16, at 83, and was buried with full tribal honors in Mountain View Cemetery, Alert Bay.

FINE CARVER

"Tony is an excellent carver and he belongs here," said Wilson Duff, anthropologist at the Provincial Museum, when he called at the Hunts' workshop this morning.

Henry Hunt was greatly pleased that his son is now working with him.

"We shall do good work together," he said.

Henry worked with Chief Mungo and his son David, on a number of famous totems, including the world's Tallest Totem Pole (127½ feet) in Beacon Hill Park, and the 100-foot royal totem carved for Queen Elizabeth and shipped to England in 1958.

After David was drowned in 1959, Henry continued working with Chief Mungo until his last fatal illness.

Esquimalt Mother of Five Dies, Three Injured in Head-On Crash

Youths Injured, $2,500 Damage In Two Crashes

Two accidents on the Trans-Canada Highway within 30 minutes caused a total of $2,500 damage and sent two youths to hospital early Sunday morning.

The crashes occurred about a quarter of a mile apart.

Murray S. Turnbull, 17, of 1974 Broadmead, and Charles McGillivray, 18, of 2882 Leigh, were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after the car in which they were riding turned over on the Thetis Lake overpass at about 12:40 a.m.

Mr. Turnbull was driver of the small 1952 English model car. He was taken to hospital suffering from shock, and his companion with a right arm injury. Both were later released.

RICOCETTED

The accident occurred when Mr. Turnbull was turning left on to the Trans-Canada Highway from the merge leading from the old Island Highway. His car scraped 17 feet of guardrail on the far side of the overpass, ricocheted to the near side, taking out about eight yards of railing before coming to rest upside down on the highway.

Total damage was estimated at $1,000.

Second accident occurred at 1:10 a.m. near the entrance to Thetis Lake Park on the highway, when the southbound vehicle driven by Maeva Singh Sundher, 3210 Bellevue, collided head-on with one driven by Roland F. Chaput, Calvert Road, Sooke.

CATCHES FIRE

Mr. Sundher's vehicle burst into flame on impact. There were no injuries.

The Sundher car was heading south on the highway, passing another vehicle at the moment of impact. He attempted to cut in to the line of traffic before hitting the Chaput car, but his rear end swung around into the path of the vehicle, he told police.

Damage to both cars was estimated at $1,500.

Road Paving Experiment In Oak Bay

A street paving experiment in Oak Bay could reduce certain future maintenance bills by two-thirds, or make possible three times the work now done.

Victoria Paving Ltd. is putting a half-inch asphalt top on two blocks of Musgrave between Estevan and Dorset, in place of the customary 1½ inches of paving material used in resurfacing old streets.

GONE ABOUT ...

Engineer Geoffrey White said the old paving is thought to have settled as far as it will go and the tighter topping should be expected to endure.

"It will take the smaller bumps out of the surface, but not the dips," he said.

If it proves successful, the repair method will be used on other Oak Bay streets of similar age, but not the very old ones where there are no curbs, or where the asphalt is in particularly poor condition.

RCMP Constable Hurt As Car Hit on Curve

A mother of five was killed and three others were injured, including an RCMP constable, in a two-car, head-on crash on Esquimalt Road Saturday night.

Dead is Mrs. Doris M. Bendall, 33, of 512 Fraser. She was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

There will be an inquest, probably Wednesday morning.

The accident occurred on Esquimalt Road near the intersection of Macaulay Street at about 9 p.m.

Also in the car in which Mrs. Bendall was riding was her husband, Kenneth D. Bendall. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injury. His condition was described as "good."

"FAIRLY GOOD"

Elizabeth Harrison, 448 Admirals Road, passenger in the Bendall car, is in "fairly good" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, where she was admitted with a fractured breast-bone and right leg, and internal injuries.

Sole occupant of the other car, marine Constable Malcolm Joseph La Freniere, of the RCMP vessel—Victoria—was taken to DVA Hospital. His injuries are not thought to be serious. It is believed he was returning to his vessel, moored at HMC Dockyard, when the accident occurred.

The Bendall car was heading into Victoria on Esquimalt Road and rounding a left-hand curve at Macaulay when the accident occurred.

The other car was travelling in the opposite direction.

INTO WINDSHIELD

The two women in the Bendall car were smashed into the windshield by the impact, shattering the glass.

Mrs. Bendall is survived by the husband, a rigger at Yarrows Ltd.; a daughter, Donna, and four sons, Darrell, Keith, Kim and David. She also leaves seven sisters and two brothers. She had lived in Victoria 15 years.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by McCall Bros.

Chief Dispatcher For E & N Railway
Dies In Sicamous

A "Monty" Thompson, well-known railroader and resident of Victoria since 1953, died at Sicamous a few days ago while returning from Calgary with Mrs. Thompson and a party of friends over the Rogers Pass.

Funeral services will be held in Vancouver Tuesday at 3 p.m. with Rev. C. R. McGillivray of Victoria, officiating.

Mr. Thompson was born in the station dwelling at Whonnock, B.C., where his father was appointed agent in 1890. He joined the Canadian Pacific on the Kettle Valley division in 1916 after a period of service with the R.A.F.

Subsequently he was chief dispatcher at Revelstoke, assistant superintendent at North Bend and supervisor of transportation, Vancouver.

He was made chief dispatcher in Victoria for the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway on July 1, 1953.

Liersch Named To UBC Board Of Governors

One of the members of B.C.'s recent Royal Commission on education has been appointed to the board of governors of the University of B.C.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced today.

He is John E. Liersch, who is vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd.

Mr. Liersch was a member of the Chant Royal Commission which spent three years conducting a comprehensive inquiry into B.C.'s school system.

He replaces Phyllis G. Ross, wife of former Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross, on the UBC board. Mrs. Ross resigned when she was elected chancellor.

CHERRY TREE ATTACK CALLED 'NASTY CASE OF VANDALISM'

A senseless attack damaging three 15-year-old boulevard trees over the weekend was reported today by parks administrator W. H. Warren.

"Someone took a saw and deliberately cut down the smaller branches of three flowering cherry trees in the 1200 block Bay Street," he said.

"With a little luck the trees may come back but they'll have to grow new 'heads'," he said.

Mr. Warren said the attack follows a similar case of vandalism last spring only a block away when someone took an axe to several boulevard trees.

"The property owners, unfortunately, didn't see or hear anything in this case but they're sure heartbroken."

"It's a nasty case of vandalism."

Will Sadist Tire Of Killing Cats?

Reward money shot to more than $400 today with mounting fears that a sadistic cat mutilator may next turn to human victims.

Voluntary donations to a Cats' Protection League reward were $160 this morning and still climbing as the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals announced a $250 reward.

Capt. J. D. Prentice, president of the Victoria branch of SPCA, said the money would be paid to anyone "with information leading to the conviction of the people responsible for these appalling acts of mutilation of cats."

For the past month, reports of cat-mangling, live-vivisection and unnatural deaths and disappearance have shocked cat lovers of Greater Victoria.

EYES GONE

The sixth and one of the most revolting cases of mutilation was reported at the weekend by a Saanich woman, who told the Cats' Protection League her pet died with eyes and tongue missing after finding its way home after a two-day absence.

Mrs. Helen Kerswell, secretary of the league, said members and people at large were contributing to the reward money—"people who are very upset about the whole business."

She said the person responsible must be "sadistic, homicidal."

"Sooner or later he will be tired of killing cats and will turn to children and women. We could have something like the Boston strangler."

"Most case histories of people like that show that they tortured animals when young."

"It is not a case of whether you like cats or do not like cats. It's gone beyond that. It's gotten to be a matter of life or death."

Fund Drive
Well Ahead
Of Last Year

The United Appeal campaign is $5,000 ahead of last year's pace with a total of $32,045, fund officials said today.

This figure represents 8.9% of the campaign's objective of $360,000.

A forecast for bad weather kept the crowds down Friday at Sandown race track, but the United Appeal still netted $500 from "United Appeal Day at the Races."

A local radio station has set up a booth at Yates and Douglas which will be staffed by members of agencies who receive support from the appeal. Citizens can ask questions about the organization as well as contribute to the appeal.

CO-ORDINATOR of the United Appeal's Education Division is R. H. Jones, principal, Tillicum School. Mr. Jones will be enlisting the support of the 850 teachers in the Greater Victoria area for contributions to the current fund drive.

EMPHASIS ON TRADE

By GORDON BELL

VANCOUVER—An intensive investigation into ways and means of stepping up economic growth to meet job requirements of Canada's rapidly expanding labor force got under way here today as the Canadian Chamber of Commerce opened its 33rd annual meeting.

Focus of attention today is the national policy committee of the chamber comprising 50 delegates proportionally representing individual chambers and boards of trade throughout the country.

Victoria's voting delegate on the policy committee is John A. Wallace, newly-elected president of the Victoria Chamber. Other Victoria delegates at the meeting are past president A. E. Walters, Hugh R. Stephen and G. Fitzpatrick Dunn.

In line with the theme of this year's meeting—Goals for Canada—bulk of the policy declarations to be debated concern strengthening the economy with an emphasis on increased trade.

A highly-controversial resolution put forward by the Stratford Chamber of Commerce proposing what would be, in effect, complete trade reciprocity between all nations of the western hemisphere, is to be considered this evening by the committee.

FEW COMMITTED

Few of the delegates so far are committed to supporting this proposal which is expected to meet a stormy opposition from representatives of highly-industrialized eastern Canadian centres.

Stratford proposes that the Canadian government take the initiative in establishing, "within the next 10 to 15 years, complete trading reciprocity, free of customs tariffs."

It is acknowledged that the primary goal would be free trade between Canada and the United States. But the Stratford group believes that by setting up a multilateral agreement covering the whole hemisphere.

Down-Under Underdog
Still Down

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—For an hour today it appeared America's Cup defender Weatherly and Australian challenger Gretel were going to sail an unofficial full course race in the waters off the Rhode Island coast.

Both 12-metre racing sloops came out of Newport Harbor at 11 a.m. and shortly after that Australian skipper Jack Sturrock initiated a tacking duel, picking up the U.S. winner of the first race from about 100 yards astern and to windward.

Weatherly's skipper, Bus Mosbacher, appeared to accept the situation as an informal challenge, and the two boats worked eight miles to windward in approximately 45 minutes. The distance covered is the same as the two boats will cover on the first leg of Tuesday's triangular course.

When the Australian challenger decided to call it off and turn downwind, the U.S. defender had opened up a lead of approximately 600 yards, a gain of 500 yards from their relative positions at the start of their impromptu match.

Canada on Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator Kenneth Keating, New York Republican, today described as "intolerable" Canadian government action in allowing Russian supply planes to fly over Canada en route to Cuba.

Police Fire
On Students

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Forty persons were injured when police fired on a student-led crowd of demonstrators in Dacca, East Pakistan, after tear gas and baton charges failed to disperse them, it was reported here today.

Authorities called in the army to take control of part of the city, the reports said.

The students were demanding lower school fees and changes in recently introduced educational reforms.

New Blast Blamed
On Sons

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—About 600 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors found themselves in a familiar position today—homeless and blamed for new terrorist activities.

They thought their immediate troubles were over Sunday when caretaker Jimmy Dennis, 69, said they could stay at the deserted Boys' Club farm he was guarding near Hope, B.C.

But agents for the man who is purchasing the farm said later the radical group was not welcome. Arrangements were made for civilian guards to be put around the farm.

Hope is 41 miles east of the Sons' destination, Agassiz, where many of their number are serving terms at Mountain Prison for terrorism.

An explosion Sunday tore a hole in the base of a 5,000-gallon oil storage tank at Grand Forks. The tank was operated by an Orthodox Doukhobor co-operative.

Orthodox leader John Verigin who blamed the trekking Sons for both incidents.

But RCMP said they did not know whether the explosion was deliberately set. RCMP estimated damage at about $25,000. No one was hurt.

Dennis, former cowboy, jockey and prospector, was not worried over the possibility he may lose his caretaker's job.

"I don't care if they're Doukhobors or what they are. They're human beings and they've no place to go," he said.

And "Big Fanny" Storgoff didn't appear to be perturbed by opposition—including extra barbed wire strung around Mountain Prison—to the Doukhobor trek she leads.

Dief Proposal
Made in London

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today proposed a world-wide trading conference "at the earliest practicable date" with Canada as host country.

Unveiling what appeared to be his "alternative plan," Diefenbaker suggested to the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers that an invitation should be extended to all member nations of the Commonwealth, the European Economic Community, the European Free Trade Area, the United States, Japan and like-minded nations that wished to participate.

The meetings would "give consideration to how to deal with the trading problems before us."

Refers to Kennedy Proposals

Diefenbaker outlined his globe-girdling plan in opening this morning's plenary session at Marlborough House. Prime Minister Macmillan and other delegates also spoke.

Diefenbaker prefaced his suggestion for world talks by referring to the plans of President Kennedy for expanding world trade. He added:

"I believe, representing as we do members of the Commonwealth and a large proportion of the world's population, we should endeavor, on a spirit of co-operation, to give world leadership in a concerted effort to meet the difficult and diversified trade problems of Commonwealth countries."

He said his proposed conference should prepare the way "for non-discriminatory tariff negotiations on a most-favored-nations basis, as the United States has suggested."

In referring to the conference,

Canada Would Go To New PMs Meet

Diefenbaker said that if it were the "general desire," Canada would be prepared to participate in a further meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers. It would also co-operate in any other method of assessing the results of the Brussels negotiations.

Prime Minister Macmillan summed up for the defence, ending a two-hour and 20-minute meeting.

Reuters news agency quoted conference sources as saying the atmosphere was calm, restrained and friendly—in marked contrast with last week's quarrels and frayed nerves.

However, the Associated Press described the debate as "heated." It quoted officials as saying the best Britain could expect was a general declaration acknowledging its right to join the Common Market—provided she can meet certain conditions and gain specific safeguards for Commonwealth trade.

Macmillan spent most of Sunday writing the speech which conference sources said would aim for Commonwealth backing despite devastating criticism of the British entry negotiations which resume next month in Brussels.

It was understood today there would be no immediate communication on the Common Market issue. Delegates would continue work on a statement, which might be issued Tuesday or at the end of the conference on Wednesday.

But Rashid Kawawa, Tanganyika's premier, promptly issued a statement saying East Africa did not want associate membership in the European Economic Community.

He said: "Our concern is to maintain our economic links with Britain, which are very strong and which we value very much."

Macmillan said he recognized the importance of the following:

1. Expansion of world trade.
2. The responsibility of ad-

'You May Not Believe This, But ...'

LONDON (AP)—Kenneth Blake ate breakfast today with a set of false teeth once worn by an octopus.

"I'm not asking anybody to believe this story," said Blake, "but it's true and here are my chopers to prove it."

Six weeks ago, Blake went to Loano on the Italian Riviera for his vacation. He went swimming off the beach and a big wave whipped out his false teeth.

He looked in vain for those teeth.

Four days went by, and it was time for him and his family to return to Britain. Toothless and dejected he came back.

At work, he told a friend, Gerald Farrell about the lost teeth. Farrell and Blake both work for a firm making railroad coaches.

Farrell said he too would be vacationing in Loano and said as a joke:

"I'll keep an eye out for the chopers."

On his first day in Loano, Farrell sat on the beach where his friend's teeth had disappeared.

"I was watching some fishermen," he said. "They were spearing things in the water. Finally, they speared an octopus."

"I couldn't believe my eyes. For when they hauled up the octopus there, in one of his tentacles was a set of false teeth. As best I could I told the fishermen how my friend lost his teeth. They handed them over."

Returning to England last weekend, Farrell called on Blake and told his strange story and handed over the teeth.

"I couldn't believe my eyes," said Blake. "They fit. They're mine. But I bet you won't believe me."
